Vast Arson-Bomb Plot Exposed In Argentina

Peron's Office, Capitol Were To Be Targets

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, May 17 (AP)—Argentine investigators reported today they had unearthed a vast plot to bomb President Peron's office and burn down the capitol and other major public buildings.

Police said the plotters included a group of Argentine political exiles who sneaked back into the country from neighboring Uruguay in launches across the River Plata Delta dividing the two countries. The authorities said an intensive search still is going on for the leader of the group, a member of the Socialist party, who reportedly brought with him a large quantity of incendiary bombs for use in the fantastic arson plot. The security ring was so tight around the delta, the authorities said, that it was believed impossible for the leader to get back out of the country.

14 Recent Bombings

The attack on the presidential office building was planned for last Wednesday, the investigators said, just at the time Peron was to enter for a Cabinet meeting. There have been 14 recent bombings in Argentina and at least six persons have been killed in them. Judge Miguel Vignola, who has been appointed to lead the investigations into a recent series of bombings and attempted bombings, said documentary evidence of the plot—detailed plans and the explosives to carry them out—were found in the home of a man identified as Miguel Angel de la Serna.

Few Plot Details Bared

The officials gave but few details of the multiple plots against the Peron government. They said the exile group planned to burn down the National Capitol Building, the Ministry of Labor, the Officers Club and the new building of the powerful General Confederation of Labor (CGT) where the body of Eva Peron, wife of the President, temporarily entombed until a memorial is built in the heart of Buenos Aires.

The CGT boasts a membership of six million and is the principle support of the Peron administration. Vignola said the would-be bombers of the President's office planned to escape in three cars to an undisclosed spot on the delta, where they then would jump into a waiting seaplane to fly to Uruguay.

Baruch Is Selected "U. S. Citizen Of Year"

PHILADELPHIA, May 17 (INS)—The Junior Order of the United American Mechanics, a century-old patriotic organization, today named Elder Statesman Bernard M. Baruch as the "American citizen of the year."

The choice was made from nominations received in a poll of more than 600 prominent Americans, including the nation's governors, and military, labor, civic and professional leaders.

Sabre Pilots Bag 15 MIGs In Two Days

South Korea Troops, Reds Fight See-Saw Battles For Outposts

SEOUL, Monday, May 18 (AP)—Capt. Joseph McConnell of Apple Valley, Calif., today shot down two Russian-built MIGs over Northwest Korea to become history's first triple jet ace.

He knocked down the two Red jets — running his score to 15 — in a raging dogfight in which a third MIG was destroyed and four others were probably destroyed.

SEOUL, May 18 (Monday) (INS)—Deadly American Sabre jets downed four Russian-built MIG jets and damaged three over Northwest Korea Sunday for a total of 15 Red jets destroyed and nine damaged in two days of furious aerial duels. Sunday's action, which raged from frosty high altitudes actually down to ground level in one case, brought the Allied boxscore for the weekend to more than a squadron of the Red Air Force put out of commission.

MIG Destroyed Without Shot

One of the MIG jets was destroyed without a shot. Sabre jet Pilot Maj. John H. Jones, Jr., Belmont, Ohio, lured his Red Chinese opponent into a maneuver that sent the enemy plane splashing into a Korean mountain side in a hail of fire. Other kills were made by Maj. Vermont Garrison of Mt. Victory, Ky., and Maj. David T. Davidson of Milan, Texas. Col. James K. Johnson of Phoenix, Ariz., and Marine Corps Capt. Dewey F. Durnford, Jr., of Columbus, Ohio, shared credit for the fourth kill. Republic of Korea footsoldiers meantime fought a series of see-saw battles with Red Chinese troops along a chain of outposts on the East-Central Front.

ROKs Regain Outpost

Stubborn ROK infantrymen, frequently slugging it out hand-to-hand with the Reds, seized one previously-lost outpost from the Chinese and for a while held onto another hill west of the Pukhan River, until a furious Red counter-attack pushed them back from the second post.

It was the fifth day of heavy fighting for the disputed positions, all in the vicinity of a horseshoe-shaped bend in the Pukhan River near Outpost Texas.

FBI Agent Shot By Crazy Man

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A berserk man threw the crowded concourse of the Washington Union Station into an uproar today when he grabbed a policeman's gun and fired three shots.

Two of the bullets struck an FBI agent who was trying to subdue the man, and the third hit the man's own left leg. No one else was hurt. The man was identified by the FBI as Homer Wesley Green, 28, of Hartford, Conn. The wounded FBI agent is John E. Mulvaney, 26, of the Washington field office. He received a wound in his right hand and his forehead was creased by a bullet. His wounds were not believed serious. Shortly before the FBI agents and a station policeman attempted to take Green into custody, he had been tearing signs from the station walls and also throwing small peanut vending machines around, the FBI said.

School Segregation Cases Affect 9,000,000 Children

ATLANTA, May 17 (AP)—Nearly nine million children in 16 states will be affected by the U. S. Supreme Court decision in the several cases seeking to outlaw segregation in public schools. An Associated Press survey today showed there are about 8,959,000 students attending public schools in the 14 Southern states which segregate the white and Negro races in their education systems. In addition, about 25,000 Negroes attend segregated schools in two fringe states, Missouri and Kansas. Public school segregation long has been under attack by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Several lawsuits over the issue are before the Supreme Court but legal au-

Business Buying More Cautiously, Report Reveals

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The nation's production and income continued to climb in the first quarter of this year, but businessmen now seem to be buying only about as much as they are selling. This report, painting a more cautious picture of the economy than the last quarter of 1952, came from the Office of Business Economics in the Department of Commerce.

It said gross national product—the total market value of all goods and services—in the first three months of 1953 was at an annual rate of 361 billion dollars, compared with 359 billions in the last three months of 1952.

Personal income, the agency said, was at an annual rate of 281 billion dollars in the first quarter of this year, a rise of four billion dollars from the rate in the last quarter of 1952. The report said the striking feature of the economy in the first quarter of 1953 was that most production was matched by sales for final use. This contrasted with the picture in the final quarter of 1952, when about eight billion dollars of goods went into inventory. In the first quarter of this year only 1½ billion dollars of goods went into stocks, indicating that most businessmen were cautiously keeping their stocks just about in line with sales.

Other Details Of Report

For comparative purposes, the agency converts monthly and quarterly totals into annual rates. The report gave these details: 1. Of the first quarter increase of 8½ billion dollars a year in the flow of goods to final use, compared with the last quarter of 1952, 7½ billions occurred in the civilian economy. The remaining one billion was in goods which went into national security uses. 2. Personal consumption in the first quarter of this year was at an annual rate of 226 billion dollars, compared to 222 billions in the last quarter of 1952. Purchases of consumer durable goods rose from an annual rate of 27½ billions to 30 billions, topped by increased outlays for automobiles.

Texas Twisters Kill One, Injure Eight

Spring rains extended from the Rockies to New England and the Gulf Coast Sunday on the heels of tornado storms that marked their fourth week-end appearance in a row by hitting Texas and Louisiana. Late Saturday at Wesley Chapel and Porter Springs, Tex., twisters left one dead and eight persons injured. The winds caused property damage at Natchitoches and around Shreveport, Louisiana. Tornado warnings were sounded for extreme Southeastern Arkansas, Northeast and Central Louisiana and West Central Mississippi.

Oatis On Way To U.S., Reunion With His Wife

Reds Gave Him 'Psychological' Treatment

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 17 (AP)—William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent released yesterday after 25 months imprisonment in Czechoslovakia, left here tonight by plane for New York. As he savored his first full day of freedom, Oatis discussed his trial and imprisonment with Associated Press colleagues. As at Nurnberg yesterday, he was reluctant to talk about details. But he did say this: "They were very efficient in their methods and preparation for my trial. It would be very difficult for me to describe what happened so that I could be understood by any one not familiar with such proceedings or with what is done, individually."

Although denying that the Czechs tried to indoctrinate him with communism, or that he was mishandled, Oatis described his purported confession as "reciting something."

Oatis Thin And Pale

Oatis, 39, from Marion, Ind., was pardoned by the Czech President—partly because of a letter written by his wife—after serving 25 months of his term. Thin and pale, but apparently in pretty good physical condition, he addressed a news conference in Nurnberg, Ger-

Harrison, Clark Confer In Tokyo

MUNSAN, Monday, May 18 (AP)—Armistice delegations today sat out the second day of a three-day recess in the deadlocked Korean prisoner exchange talks while the chief Allied negotiator conferred in Tokyo with Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations Far East commander.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., flew to Tokyo Sunday for the meeting and possibly for long distance talks with Washington. The U. N. Command said only that the recess was for "administrative" purposes. But observers considered it probably would allow time for consultations among Allied nations on ways of breaking the prisoner exchange stalemate.

Communist and Allied proposals differ radically in the handling of 48,500 Korean and Chinese Red prisoners who say they would rather die than return to Communist rule.

Rep. Hull, 82, Oldest House Member, Dies

WASHINGTON, May 17 (INS)—The office of Rep. Merlin Hull, the oldest member of the House, announced that the legislator died early today following surgical treatment at a Lacrosse, Wis., hospital. A resident of Black River Falls, Hull, 82, has represented the Ninth Wisconsin District in the House of Representatives continuously since 1934. Previously he served in the House from 1928 to 1930, was secretary of state in Wisconsin, and was a member of the state legislature from 1909 until the World War I period.

Gov. Dewey Sees Danger In Power To Give Immunity

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A letter from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York warning of "the gravity of the danger involved in the power to grant immunity" was made public today by Sen. Kilgore (D-WV).

At the same time Rep. Kean (R-NJ), chairman of a House tax fraud investigating subcommittee, spoke out against a bill empowering congressional committees to grant immunity from prosecution to witnesses to induce them to testify.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), was brought up in the Senate recently. Action on it was postponed, however, after Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said Atty-Gen. Brown had voiced objections to it.

Kilgore Requested Views

Dewey, a close associate of Brownell, expressed his views in response to a request from Kilgore. He wrote that while he was not familiar with the details of the McCarran bill, "I recognize the gravity of the danger involved in the power to grant immunity."

Dewey went on to say that the New York State Crime Commission, which he credited with notable success, "is recommending the adoption of procedures to prevent the granting of immunity in improper cases."

Won Fame As Prosecutor

Dewey, who won national prominence as a special prosecutor, said his own experience "would lead me to concur in the Crime Commission's recommendations."

Kean said in a statement that although granting a witness immunity would have helped in several cases before his investigating committee, he "would not want the responsibility the McCarran bill would place on members of Congress."

He Maintained The Attorney General Should Have The Final Say

He maintained the attorney general should have the final say about whether a congressional committee should give a witness immunity, adding that otherwise "there is too much of a chance that the privilege can be abused."

Lightning Strikes Theater At Climax Of Horror Movie

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—An estimated 100 patrons fled in panic from a downtown theater (the Stanley) last night when lightning struck the building at the climax of a horror film. The lightning demolished a brick chimney and debris damaged at least 20 automobiles on an adjacent parking lot, but no injuries were reported.

The incident occurred during a showing of "House of Wax."

Legislator Says U. S. Atomic Stockpile More Than Ample

WASHINGTON, May 17 (INS)—A member of Congress declared today the U. S. has "several times" the number of atomic weapons needed to combat Russia and other sources said the Pentagon is revising its requirements. Rep. Hinshaw (R) Calif., a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, stressed in a televised debate that he could speak with some knowledge about atomic stockpiles. He asserted: "We have several times as much as necessary to reap vengeance upon them (the Russians) and enough to carry on a very active war."

Ill-Fated DC-3 Falls To Earth During Storm

Woman Only Known Survivor Of Tragedy Near Marshall, Tex.

MARSHALL, Tex., May 17 (AP)—A loaded Delta Airlines plane plunged to the ground 13 miles east of here this afternoon in a blinding thunderstorm, killing at least 19 persons.

Mrs. J. W. Cox of Albuquerque, N. M., was the only known survivor.

Two other persons were brought to the hospital here but died soon afterwards.

The two-motor DC3 was en route from Dallas to Shreveport and only six minutes flying time from the Shreveport field when it went down. A report from the pilot two minutes before the crash made no mention of trouble.

Motor Reported Idle

Garland Clark, who lives near the Marshall Airport, said one motor on the plane was idle when it flew over at about 500 feet. He thought it was going to land at the Marshall airport, but instead it headed east into an approaching dark storm cloud.

Mrs. Cox said she did not know what happened.

"We ran into a terrific rain-storm and I dozed off," she said in the hospital here. "When I woke up the plane was turning over and over and everyone was screaming. The next thing I remember was coming to in a puddle of water with a dying man beside me."

Mrs. Cox was in a semi-conscious condition with a serious head injury and a broken leg. Doctors said here she had a good chance to survive.

20 Aboard Airliner
Mrs. Cox said she was en route to Jackson, Miss., to meet her husband who is in the Air Force. She said the couple planned to take a vacation in Florida before he was sent overseas.

Harrison County Judge Paul W. Warren said there were 20 persons aboard the plane, including a small baby, and Mrs. Cox was the only survivor.

"I don't see how anyone survived," said Millard Cope, publisher of the Marshall News Messenger. "The wreckage was scattered all over that area. Apparently it did not catch fire afterwards. I've heard reports there was an explosion after the crash but I don't know."

The crash was about one mile off heavily traveled U. S. Highway 80, a few miles west of the Texas-Louisiana border.

The Rains and Talley Funeral Home in Marshall had 11 bodies and six more bodies were taken to another undertaker. There were reports some bodies were taken to Longview, Tex.

President Visits Naval Academy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 17 (INS)—President Eisenhower told Annapolis midshipmen today that these "troubled times" give them a special opportunity for lives of dedicated service to their country. The commander-in-chief addressed his remarks to the 3,600 future naval officers during his first visit to the Naval Academy since entering the White House.

Speaking to the entire brigade of midshipmen assembled in ornate, ivy-covered Bancroft Hall for their noonday meal, President Eisenhower stressed the high honor in a life of military service.

The former five-star general said it has been his experience that the youngest of a captain or a colonel will push out his chest "far more proudly" than a child of a "merchant."

The president worked until 1:30 a. m. (EDT) Sunday on the radio address he will deliver Tuesday night on the budget, taxes and national security.

The CGT boasts a membership of six million and is the principle support of the Peron administration.

Vignola said the would-be bombers of the President's office planned to escape in three cars to an undisclosed spot on the delta, where they then would jump into a waiting seaplane to fly to Uruguay.

Ninth Of Series Of Atomic Blasts Scheduled Today

LAS VEGAS, May 17 (INS)—The Atomic Energy Commission said today the oft-postponed firing of the ninth atomic device in the current series of tests will be held in the pre-dawn darkness of Yucca Flat tomorrow morning—weather permitting.

The blast, penultimate shot before the May 23 firing of history's first atomic Artillery shell, originally was scheduled for May 2. It was postponed because of weather to May 16, 17 and now May 18.

The test, a tower shot, will be witnessed by a number of members of Congress and 200 armed forces staff officers. No troops will be used, the AEC said.

GOP Seen Asking Dulles To Clarify Red China Stand

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—Dissatisfied GOP senators may call on Secretary of State Dulles soon to clarify the Eisenhower administration's attitude toward giving Communist China a seat in the United Nations.

Some Western allies already have indicated they will support Red China's plea for a place at the U. N. Security Council table as part of the Communists' price for a settlement in Korea.

GOP Split Is Feared

President Eisenhower left many Republican senators unsatisfied and the administration's attitude somewhat up in the air when he told a news conference last week that certainly he would not say at this time that Red China's admission to the U. N. should follow a Korean armistice.

An influential Republican senator who didn't want to be quoted by name told this reporter that unless the President and Dulles follow a course opposing such a move actively and at every step the GOP "will break wide open over foreign policy."

Dulles probably will get a chance to state his views on the question when he reports to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his current Middle East inspection tour.

Dulles Opposes Entry To U. N.

Although he wrote in his book before he became secretary of state that the U. S. would have to recognize Red China once the Communists had gained full control over their territories and peoples, Dulles has gone much further in private conferences with senators than the President in flatly opposing Peiping's entry into the U. N.

Such senators as Knowland (R-Calif.), Bridges (R-NH), H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) and others apparently would like to have Dulles firmly on record with these views, if he still holds them.

Democrats who have been watching this potential blowup among the Republicans are divided on the twin questions of recognition and U. N. admission.

Spring rains extended from the Rockies to New England and the Gulf Coast Sunday on the heels of tornado storms that marked their fourth week-end appearance in a row by hitting Texas and Louisiana.

Late Saturday at Wesley Chapel and Porter Springs, Tex., twisters left one dead and eight persons injured. The winds caused property damage at Natchitoches and around Shreveport, Louisiana.

Tornado warnings were sounded for extreme Southeastern Arkansas, Northeast and Central Louisiana and West Central Mississippi.

Oatis On Way To U.S., Reunion With His Wife

Reds Gave Him 'Psychological' Treatment

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 17 (AP)—William N. Oatis, Associated Press correspondent released yesterday after 25 months imprisonment in Czechoslovakia, left here tonight by plane for New York where his wife awaits him.

The lanky newsman boarded a Pan American plane under a barrage of snapping cameras. He was accompanied by Alan J. Gould, executive editor of The Associated Press.

The plane is due at New York's Idlewild Airport at about 1 p.m., EST, Monday.

Oatis said earlier today the Czech Communists gave him "psychological" treatment in the trial which brought him a 10-year sentence.

Although denying that the Czechs tried to indoctrinate him with communism, or that he was misshandled, Oatis described his purported confession as "reciting something."

Oatis Thin And Pale

Oatis, 39, from Marion, Ind., was pardoned by the Czech President—partly because of a letter written by his wife—after serving 25 months of his term. Thin and pale, but apparently in pretty good physical condition, he addressed a news conference in Nuernberg, Ger-

Harrison, Clark Confer In Tokyo

MUNSAN, Monday, May 18 (AP)—Armistice delegations today sat out the second day of a three-day recess in the deadlocked Korean prisoner exchange talks while the chief Allied negotiator conferred in Tokyo with Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations Far East commander.

Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. flew to Tokyo Sunday for the meeting and possibly for long distance talks with Washington.

The U. N. Command said only that the recess was for "administrative" purposes. But observers considered it probably would allow time for consultations among Allied nations on ways of breaking the prisoner exchange stalemate.

Communist and Allied proposals differ radically in the handling of 48,500 Korean and Chinese Red prisoners who say they would rather die than return to Communist rule.

Rep. Hull, 82, Oldest House Member, Dies

WASHINGTON, May 17 (INS)—The office of Rep. Merlin Hull, the oldest member of the House, announced that the legislator died early today following surgical treatment at a Lacrosse, Wis., hospital.

A resident of Black River Falls, Hull, 82, has represented the Ninth Wisconsin District in the House of Representatives continuously since 1934.

Previously he served in the House from 1928 to 1930, was secretary of state in Wisconsin, and was a member of the state legislature from 1909 until the World War I period.

Gov. Dewey Sees Danger In Power To Give Immunity

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A letter from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York warning of "the gravity of the danger involved in the power to grant immunity" was made public today by Sen. Kilgore (D-WV).

At the same time Rep. Kean (R-NJ), chairman of a House tax fraud investigating subcommittee, spoke out against a bill empowering congressional committees to grant immunity from prosecution to witnesses to induce them to testify.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), was brought up in the Senate recently. Action on it was postponed, however, after Sen. Taft of Ohio, the Republican leader, said Atty.-Gen. Brown had voiced objections to it.

Kilgore Requested Views

Dewey, a close associate of Brownell, expressed his views in response to a request from Kilgore. He wrote that while he was not familiar with the details of the McCarran bill, "I recognize the gravity of the danger involved in the power to grant immunity."

Dewey went on to say that the New York State Crime Commission, which he credited with notable success, "is recommending the adoption of procedures to prevent the granting of immunity in improper cases."

"The basis for the recommendation," he added, "is that the granting of immunity is an extraordinary power which should in all cases be carefully restricted."

Won Fame As Prosecutor

Dewey, who won national prominence as a special prosecutor, said his own experience "would lead me to concur in the Crime Commission's recommendations."

Kean said in a statement that although granting a witness immunity would have helped in several cases before his investigating committee, he "would not want the responsibility the McCarran bill would place on members of Congress."

He maintained the attorney general should have the final say about whether a congressional committee should give a witness immunity, adding that otherwise "there is too much of a chance that the privilege can be abused."

Hinshaw and Rep. Judd (R) Minn., appeared in defense of military budget cuts proposed by the Eisenhower administration. Sen. Tamm (D) Miss., and Rep. McCormack (D) Mass., took the opposite view in the televised debate.

Ill-Fated DC-3 Falls To Earth During Storm

Woman Only Known Survivor Of Tragedy Near Marshall, Tex.

MARSHALL, Tex., May 17 (AP)—A loaded Delta Airlines plane plunged to the ground 13 miles east of here this afternoon in a blinding thunderstorm, killing at least 19 persons.

Mrs. J. W. Cox of Albuquerque, N. M., was the only known survivor.

Two other persons were brought to the hospital here but died soon afterwards.

The two-motor DC3 was en route from Dallas to Shreveport and only six minutes flying time when the Shreveport field when it went down. A report from the pilot two minutes before the crash made no mention of trouble.

Motor Reported Idle

Garland Clark, who lives near the Marshall Airport, said one motor on the plane was idle when it flew over at about 500 feet. He thought it was going to land at the Marshall airport, but instead it headed east into an approaching dark storm cloud.

Mrs. Cox said she did not know what happened.

"We ran into a terrific rain-storm and I dozed off," she said in the hospital here. "When I woke up the plane was turning over and over and everyone was screaming. The next thing I remember was coming to in a puddle of water with a dying man beside me."

Mrs. Cox was in a semi-conscious condition with a serious head injury and a broken leg. Doctors said here she had a good chance to survive.

20 Aboard Airliner

Mrs. Cox said she was en route to Jackson, Miss., to meet her husband who is in the Air Force. She said the couple planned to take a vacation in Florida before he was sent overseas.

Harrison County Judge Paul W. Warren said there were 20 persons aboard the plane, including a small baby, and Mrs. Cox was the only survivor.

"I don't see how anyone survived," said Millard Cope, publisher of the Marshall News Messenger. "The wreckage was scattered all over that area. Apparently it did not catch fire afterwards. I've heard reports there was an explosion after the crash but I don't know."

The crash was about one mile off heavily traveled U. S. Highway 80, a few miles west of the Texas-Louisiana border.

The Rains and Talley Funeral Home in Marshall had 11 bodies and six more bodies were taken to another undertaker. There were reports some bodies were taken to Longview, Tex.

President Visits Naval Academy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 17 (INS)—President Eisenhower told Annapolis midshipmen today that these "troubled times" give them a special opportunity for lives of dedicated service to their country.

The commander-in-chief addressed his remarks to the 3,600 future naval officers during his first visit to the Naval Academy since entering the White House. Speaking to the entire brigade of midshipmen assembled in ornate, ivy-covered Bancroft Hall for their noonday meal, President Eisenhower stressed the high honor in a life of military service.

The former five-star general said it has been his experience that the youngster of a captain or a colonel will push out his chest "far more proudly" than a child of a "merchant."

The president worked until 1:30 a. m. (EDT) Sunday on the radio address he will deliver Tuesday night on the budget, taxes and national security.

China Reds Expel Priest

HONG KONG, May 17 (AP)—Msgr. Inigo Koenig, 47, a German priest who had spent a year in prison in Communist China, arrived here today after being expelled by the Reds. He was given a public trial on May 5, 1952, on accusations of killing 300 orphans in Shaowku, Fukien Province.

Israeli Patrolmen Slain

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, May 17 (AP)—An Israeli Army spokesman reported two Israeli border patrolmen were shot and killed today by "infiltrators" in the Jerusalem border corridor with Jordan.

Acheson May Get Aid Inquiry Call

WASHINGTON, May 17 (INS) — Senators said today there is a "strong possibility" that former Secretary of State Acheson may be called as a witness in a probe of the legality of 200 million dollars spent in military aid for France.

Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee said that Secretary of State Acheson may be involved in the dispute because of a proposed 217 and one-half million dollar expenditure of the same nature.

At issue is the constitutionality of the so-called "Lisbon Agreement" signed by Acheson and former French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman at Lisbon, Portugal, on Feb. 25, 1952.

Investigators for the Senate committee said the U. S. contracted to pay "vast sums" for French military equipment and to turn the material over simultaneously to the French government.

The question of legality, according to committee sources, revolves about the fact that the purchase agreements were not surrounded by the restrictions which normally accompany military procurement.

Oatis On Way

(Continued from Page 1) "I found that an American reporter, trying his best to do a job as fairly as he could, was not understood."

No attempts were made by his captors to indoctrinate him with Communist ideology, Oatis said. "I don't know what was done generally with prisoners," he explained. "My observations were limited. But I was not subjected to special pressure after my trial and conviction. I mean political or ideological pressure."

Subject To Rigid Routine

"I was subject, of course, to a rigidly controlled routine, from 5:30 in the morning until 9:30 at night. There was rarely any deviation in our schedule. We lived each day by strict schedule—and each night, too."

"For instance," Oatis continued, "each night we had to spread our things on the floor, just so, and most prisoners had always to sleep with their hands and arms outside the blankets, no matter how severe the weather. A guard would promptly wake up the prisoner if his arms were not visible when he made his rounds."

"This was part of the watch constantly maintained to prevent anyone from attempting suicide."

"But I was given special permission to put my arms under the covers as were many other prisoners whom the Czechs trusted not to commit suicide."

Board To Receive School Desk Bids

Bids for school desks, tables and chairs for the new junior-senior high school at Lonaconing will be opened by the Allegheny County Board of Education at 2 p. m. today.

The new school—still unnamed—will be opened when the new term starts in September. The contractor is nearing completion of construction.

Already the Board of Education has awarded contracts to furnish other equipment for the auditorium, gymnasium, cafeteria, home economics rooms and science laboratory.

Three New Wills To Be Probated

The wills of three Allegheny County women were probated today in Orphans Court.

The will of Margaret E. Logsdon, of Mt. Savage, who died April 12 names her brother, Bernard Logsdon, as executor of the document. A niece, Mary Jo Logsdon, and the brother were named beneficiaries.

The children of Minnie Shroyer, of Ellerslie, who died May 6 were listed as beneficiaries in her will. Henrietta Michael, of Westernport, named her husband, Isaac G. Michael, as executor of her will. She died October 27, 1952. The husband and surviving children of the deceased are beneficiaries.

Weather

Intermittent rainfall was the weather order for the day again yesterday as a generally gloomy Sunday went into the record books. At Constitution Park, the official high for the day was 73 degrees and the low 59. At 9:30 p. m. temperature had leveled off at 68 degrees. Rainfall during the day totaled .29 inch and at 6 p. m. the humidity was 84 per cent. Today the prediction is for scattered showers and thunderstorms with more warm and humid weather.

Attention Maryland Motorists

A very important amendment to the Maryland Financial Responsibility law was enacted during the 1953 Legislative session to become effective June 1, 1953.

In order to avoid risk of losing drivers' licenses and registrations it is necessary that automobile owners carry insurance of at least $10,000/$20,000 Bodily Injury and $5000 Property damage.

This change in the law will directly affect all motorists who own or operate an automobile in the State of Maryland, including non-residents.

Acheson May Get Aid Inquiry Call

WASHINGTON, May 17 (INS) — Senators said today there is a "strong possibility" that former Secretary of State Acheson may be called as a witness in a probe of the legality of 200 million dollars spent in military air for France.

Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee said that Secretary of State Acheson may be involved in the dispute because of a proposed 217 and one-half million dollar expenditure of the same nature.

At issue is the constitutionality of the so-called "Lisbon Agreement" signed by Acheson and former French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman at Lisbon, Portugal, on Feb. 25, 1952.

Investigators for the Senate committee said the U. S. contracted to pay "vast sums" for French military equipment and to turn the material over simultaneously to the French government.

The question of legality, according to committee sources, revolves about the fact that the purchase agreements were not surrounded by the restrictions which normally accompany military procurement.

Hagerstown Residents To Appear In Movie

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 17 (AP) — A cast of 35 Hagerstown residents will appear in a public health movie to be distributed throughout the world under sponsorship of the U. S. State Department.

PTA To Elect

Election and installation of officers will be held at the final meeting of the Columbia Street PTA at the school Tuesday night. The committee chairman will give the final reports for the year.

Recreation Director Robert Pence will give a talk on "Playground Safety for the Summer."

Carver High Receives Flag

An American flag from Fort Cumberland Unit 13, American Legion Auxiliary of the Department of Maryland, has been presented to Carver High School.

The flag was donated by Mrs. Elsie Young, Americanism chairman, in memory of her brother, Joseph F. Summers, who died in 1948 of service-connected injuries received in France. He served in World War I.

Following ceremonies and the flag pledge Thursday afternoon in the school auditorium, a playlet offered by Ninth Grade students gave a complete demonstration of the Flag Code and Etiquette as adopted by the National Flag Conference and the National Americanism Commission of the American Legion.

Accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Robb, students sang "Where, O Where But In America." Arthur Washington and Warren Johnson displayed the colors dedicated by Mrs. Hazel Harney, unit president, and Mrs. Ada Conley Long.

Earle L. Bracey, school principal, accepted the flag and Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of Junior High Schools, spoke on "Our Heritage" and the obligations owed to our forefathers for winning freedom.

The program was under the direction of Miss Mary Ninnelly, member of the school faculty.

Decision Is Deferred In Arson Hearing

Sentence was deferred Saturday in the juvenile court case of a 12-year-old boy accused of setting fire to Johnson Heights School and a two-room home last week.

Police said Magistrate Alban C. Thompson withheld passing judgment pending a mental examination for the young defendant taken into custody following the school fire Thursday.

Detective Lt. James E. Van, who went to the scene, said he noticed the boy had a burned finger. Additional investigation resulted in a confession. The lad also told of igniting kerosene at the house owned by Mrs. B. S. Smith, 538 Woodside Avenue, Wednesday night.

Meanwhile, police continued Saturday to probe a teen-age crime wave of shoplifting, breaking and entering and vandalism during the past six months. Five youths have admitted implication.

Authorities said others may be involved. Losses were estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000. Hearings are slated this week in juvenile court.

Beall Will Head State GOP Group

J. Glenn Beall, Jr., son of Maryland's junior U. S. senator, was elected president of the Young Republicans of Maryland Saturday at a convention in Annapolis.

A resident of Frostburg, young Beall defeated Hugh H. Hassell of Bethesda, Southern regional director of the national federation. The vote was 73-22 after campaigning which saw William A. Gresham, secretary to Sen. Beall, come to Annapolis from Washington to aid backers of the senator's son.

Beall, 25, is associated with his father in an insurance business at Frostburg and Cumberland.

Hassell, 29-year-old office furnishings salesman, had headed the convention nominating committee which was rejected again in election of a co-chairman, Mrs. William E. Bennight, 36, of Hagerstown, won over Miss Janet Turner of Anne Arundel County, a secretary in Gov. McKeldin's office.

Industry Bill Cited

The May issue of Maryland Municipal News calls to the attention of state municipal officials House Bill 293 passed in the recent General Assembly which grants tax exemption to Allegany County industries that expand or build.

12-Day-Old Colt Dies As Rescuers Try To Pull Him From 30-Foot Cave

NEW MARKET, Tenn., May 17 — A 12-day-old colt died of a broken neck yesterday as rescue workers sought to pull him from a 30-foot cave where he had been trapped for four days.

After three days of vain efforts to reach the animal, a group of farmers finally managed to lower Milum Trent, 110-pound insurance agent from nearby Jefferson City, into the cavern late yesterday.

Trent tied a rope around the colt's neck but the colt, described as "the playfulest little fellow you ever saw," suffered a broken neck and died when the farmers tried to pull him out of the cave.

Trent himself almost suffocated when he was pulled through a narrow opening near the mouth of the cave.

The jet-black colt, named "Wild Bill," fell into the cave last Sunday on a farm owned by Raymond Larrance. Larrance's farm is about 25 miles east of Knoxville.

Larrance said sorrowfully that "the cave will be the colt's grave."

The colt's disappearance was discovered Monday morning. Mrs. Larrance said the colt's mother, an old mare named "Queenie," led her and her husband to the cave opening.

"At first we thought the colt was dead," she said. "Then we heard him squeal when his mother would nicker."

Hazardous Occupations

The first time I saw Luke Barnett was a good many years ago at a baseball-writers' dinner where everything is supposed to be merry and gay and usually is. For the benefit of those who have never run across him, I would like to explain he made his living, and may be still does, by insulting distinguished guests.

According to my recollection on this occasion his target for the night was Irish Meusel, the big Yankee outfielder.

The routine is simple and effective. Posing as a headwaiter who speaks broken English, he makes his victim think he had bad manners and has never heard of Emily Post. He nags him by changing plates constantly so he doesn't get a chance to eat. For example, he will rush up just as his pigeon is about to take a mouthful, snatch the table tool out of his hand, and say,

"No! No! De wrong fork." Then he will pick up the dish of victuals, too.

On this evening the big leaguer took it as long as he could and finally arose to take a punch at his tormentor, who ducked behind a post, and, when eventually cornered, started to cry. Next he was introduced as a fake waiter and the gag explained. Afterwards, I got hold of him.

"You must take many a punch in the nose in your line of business," I said.

"No," he answered. "You see if I get cornered I begin to weep, and no one wants to sock a guy in tears. I realize I am a damn nuisance. It reminds me of the fellow who had insomnia and went to see his doctor."

"I'll tell you what you do," advised the physician. "Get a middle-aged goat and put him in your bedroom. After a week, come back and report to me how things are going."

"The patient did as directed and returned to complain.

"I had a terrible time," he announced. "The goat bleated all night and smelled to high heaven, and I couldn't sleep at all." The doctor smiled.

"That's as I expected. Now go take him out of your room and see what happens."

"After a couple of days he came back.

"Everything is fine," he said. "Naturally I slept like a baby."

"You see," went on Mr. Barnett. "I am like that. As soon as I leave a place, things are serene again. It's like the fellow hitting himself on the head with a hammer because it feels so good when he quits."

He went off to tell me about one time he appeared at a Detroit dinner, shortly after the war, mixing the German language with English until one of the big belligerent guests got so mad he threw him downstairs. He came back limping with tears in his eyes.

"A fine way to treat a foreigner," he moaned. "It is true I was a Nazi and my father was a colonel on Bismark's staff."

Several started for him again with blood in their eyes, but before they could reach him, he laughed and said,

"Now does anyone want to hear an Irish story?"

A tough business and a witless one and as useless, it seems to me, as trying to shave with a razor that has no blade in it.

I could go into a great many more details on this subject of hazardous jobs, but am running out of space. There are the caddies who insult golfers, the guys who model bullet-proof vests, and reporters who ask ex-heavyweight champs about their private lives, as I once had to ask Jack Johnson. Finally, there is the husband who plays bridge with his wife as a partner. He is brave. I often wonder why I can never get any of those good hands like South allways holds in the newspapers.

Eight Cows Killed By Lightning Bolt

FREDERICK, Md., May 17 — A good part of Chester Price's cattle herd—eight cows—was wiped out by lightning yesterday.

Price, who runs a farm on Hopewell Road at nearby Williamsport, said the cows were huddled under a tree during a storm when the tree was struck by lightning.

Gephart School Mothers Honored

Mothers enrolling new first grade pupils at Gephart School were honored at a recent tea given by the school's Parent Study Group.

The program was held to acquaint them with purposes of the unit.

Speakers included Homer Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel; Mrs. Lawrence Shafferman, state and county chairman of Parent Study groups; Miss Elizabeth I. Flake, school principal; and Mrs. Earl Lawyer, group chairman.

Corsages were presented by Diana Diggs and Wayne Thompson.

The Rio Grande is the third longest river in the United States. It is exceeded only by the Mississippi and the Missouri. The Rio Grande is called the World's dustiest river.

Individual Student

How to accommodate mass education to the wide variations in talents, desires, tastes and capacities of individuals is a problem of the times that besets the wisest educators. President Dodds of Princeton is critical of public schools for not giving sufficient attention, as he asserts, to these basic differences.

Mass, when it comes to education, is relative. There are large private schools where it is not evident that the individual student receives specialized attention as to curriculum, progress in studies and so on. Nor is the talented student in public schools unrecognized.

No doubt at Princeton, with its present large enrollment, it is difficult to give as much consideration to the individual student as it was several decades ago, when there were fewer students, and requirements as to studies were stricter.

Public discussion of these problems occurred at an alumni meeting in New York the other night of Loomis School, a private institution in Connecticut. The new headmaster, Francis O. Grubbs, made an eloquent and persuasive plea for the teaching of the humanities at the high school level. He said few educators have been willing to recognize the importance of high school years, all the more so since colleges were discarding many liberal arts courses in favor of technical subjects.

Said Mr. Grubbs: "It brings us to a new definition or a new set of goals: to teach our young people how to think rather than what to think; to give them a real understanding of the respect for the past; to provide them with a basic familiarity with the world around them; to introduce them to the infinite inspiration and solace and enchantment derived from friendship with beauty in music, art and literature; and finally to give them a spiritual thread to tie things together."

These are noble standards, to which all educators of youth of high school age might well give consideration.

First Hurdle In Europe

The United States, Britain and France agree that concluding an Austrian peace treaty would be the best evidence Russia could give of willingness to end the cold war in Europe. Agreement has already been reached on 54 of 59 clauses in the Austrian draft treaty, and the other five involve trivial differences on which agreement would be easy—if Moscow wanted it.

After the West had made many concessions during the 258 meetings held to work out the treaty, it was obvious to both sides that agreement on the remaining five clauses was almost certain. But Russia, apparently fearful that the West would give in on those minor points, suddenly began to make wholly new demands.

In particular, the Reds refused to conclude any Austrian treaty unless a settlement were first reached on Trieste, which doesn't concern Austria at all.

A settlement on Austria can be concluded in 10 minutes, if Russia wants one. Little remains to be done except to sign on the dotted line. Under wartime agreements, conclusion of a treaty would be followed by withdrawal of troops of both sides from Austria. This would leave Russia with a preponderance of power to influence Austrian policy, for two reasons: Russian armed forces would still be close at hand; Russia owns more than 300 industries in Austria which she took over as "German assets"—war booty.

The catch is, from Russia's standpoint, that under the same wartime agreements Russia would also be called upon to withdraw Red troops from Hungary and Romania if an American treaty were signed. Some observers think Moscow might agree to an Austrian treaty if the West did not insist on Red troop withdrawal from the two satellites. But if the rulers in the Kremlin really want peace why should they want to keep troops in "independent" Romania and Hungary?

Car Owners Anonymous

An introspective character says there actually is such a thing as "new car fever." He says he's observed the symptoms both in himself and in others and almost invariably they follow a pattern.

They go like this: Inattention to the road and attention to a new model car; close attention to published ads on new cars; a campaign of slander and abuse against one's old car; a growing feeling that one owes it to himself to have something better. The fever seems to hit strongest in mid-spring and early fall, he says.

Apparently millions suffer from it. Some are cured only when the shiny new number is eased into the garage. Others are shocked into sensibility just before the final stages of the fever carry them down into the spinning vortex which leads in turn to the loan department in the bank and thence to the dealers.

But, according to an article in the magazine Speed Age, there seems to be a specific antibiotic for this virus. Many a man who might ordinarily run into the final and fatal stages of new car fever is brought up short because of the high depreciation factor which appraisers apply to his old car.

The article points out that the "annual trade" process—wherein the owner trades his car every year—is losing popularity. The reason? Actual changes in "new models," according to Speed Age, are really superficial. Thus the first year depreciation is a thumping one. It is suggested that there may soon be an organization known as "car owners anonymous."

But a look at traffic reveals that the fever is still running high. To own the latest model has been a consuming American ambition for 30 years. The probability is that it has been planted permanently in the character of the people.

New Air Force Chief

Appointment of General Nathan L. Twining to replace General Hoyt Vandenberg as top officer in the Air Force appears to have been the natural solution of the problem of seeking a good policy maker to be both Air Force boss and this service's representative on the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

General Twining had been heir apparent to General Vandenberg's job. But he appears to have the larger qualifications which will be needed to meet the altered mission of the Joint Chiefs.

Apparently one requisite of new top military appointments is the ability to see farther than the needs of the officer's particular service. General Twining has already shown this ability, both in riding herd on factionalism within his own Air Force while pinch hitting as air chief during the long illness of General Vandenberg, and by the manner in which he has handled the problems of liaison with Congress.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

Eye Injuries

The eyes are delicate and vision is precious, reasons enough for not taking a chance or delaying treatment when they are injured or infected. These organs do a good job of protecting themselves however; when exposed to trauma the lids shut quickly as the result of a marvelous reflex mechanism. Moreover, a bony frame defends them from all sides except the front.

The eyes also react to minor mishaps by increasing the secretion of tears in an effort to wash away any tiny objects that land on the surface. Furthermore, the eyeball is sensitive and the lids go into spasm, causing such severe pain the individual must make an attempt to eliminate the trespasser before relief is obtained. In this way nature creates an emergency that calls for immediate attention, thus warding off serious consequences. When tears are ineffective in washing away a foreign body, the use of water in an eye-cup may be helpful. If this maneuver fails, more expert care is needed, particularly when there is a possibility that the particle is made of glass, metal, wood, or stone. Some specks produce greater irritation than do others because of chemical changes.

Our eyes are no match for war and modern industry, however. Gunshot, airgun, dynamite, landmines, high explosive shells, missiles, debris of all sort, and flying foreign bodies have caused untold damage to the seeing mechanism. When the penetration is deep, there is danger of loss of both eyes even though repair of the initial injury has been excellent. This is because when one optic is damaged the sound eye may develop sympathetic irritation which will continue until sight in both is destroyed unless the injured eye is removed. This complication is not common but when it takes place quick action is essential to save the unaffected eye. Should the physician recommend removal, the victim must abide by his decision or ask for consultation.

When alkali, acid, or other irritating chemical substances accidentally strike the eye, it should be washed out immediately. The quickest way is to use tap water, step into a shower, or immerse the head in a bucket or basin of water. The eye should be opened and closed frequently while under water to dilute the caustic and wash it out. As soon as this has been done, call the physician for more expert advice. Those working with known chemicals in a factory should always have the proper neutralizer available in case of accident. For example, if acids are being used a solution of sodium bicarbonate should be kept available for emergencies.

Our eyes were never made to withstand the rays produced by various machines and lamps. Neutrons, X-ray, grenz, beta, cathode, gamma, and cosmic rays not only burn but cause cataracts. Serious conjunctivitis may result from ultraviolet rays emanating from the sun, the welder's arc, and quartz mercury vapor lamps. Atomic explosions combine the bad effects of concussion force, flying particles, blinding light, extreme heat, infrared, ultraviolet, beta and neutron radiation. Our inventions present many hazards and it is wise to play safe so far as these rays are concerned. The eyes always should be protected with dark glasses or, in an emergency, with the hands lest irreparable damage ensue.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses inflammation of the stomach.

DIAGNOSTIC AID

Mrs. J. writes: In your recent article on cancer of the breast you mentioned self-examination as a means of detecting "lumps" in an early stage. How is this done?

REPLY

We have prepared a leaflet describing this technique, which can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

SAGGING ABDOMEN

C. W. writes: Is pot belly in an adult caused entirely by overeating or could it be owing to weak muscles?

REPLY

Both. Other causes include abdominal tumors, pregnancy, and dropsy.

BLOATING AND BILIOUSNESS

R. M. writes: Recently, whenever I eat fresh fruit or raw vegetables (particularly celery) I suffer from bloating and biliousness. Is this a liver or gall bladder disorder?

REPLY

Indigestion is common in liver and gall bladder disturbances but it occurs also in other gastrointestinal disorders. To rule out these conditions, X-rays will be needed.

THROAT "LUMP"

Mrs. H. B. writes: Can you furnish me with information on the imaginary lump in the throat which is called globus hystericus?

REPLY

This condition is not a "lump," nor is the sensation imaginary. In most instances, the feeling stems from tightness in the throat muscles which results from nervous stimulation.

Food And Drug Administration Defeated By Grain Dealers On Question Of Inspection; Cleanup Of Rat-Infested Wheat Halts Under Pressure

WASHINGTON — One of the most amazing backtracks of the Eisenhower administration took place very quietly a few days ago when it reversed a program for keeping rat droppings and weevil waste out of wheat and other grain sold to the American housewife.

The rat-cleanup program had begun last fall, October 15, 1952, under the Democrats, and on April 6 was widened by the Food and Drug Administration under the Republicans. It was then extended to weevil-infested grain.

However, one of the first official acts of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby after she became a full-fledged member of the Eisenhower cabinet was to suspend this grain-cleanup program by an order issued May 1. The Food and Drug Administration is under her. Simultaneously Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who was co-operating in the grain cleanup, also dropped the program.

The sudden reversal came after 45 carloads of wheat had been seized for having an excess of rat droppings. It also came after the program was vigorously opposed by big grain dealers, with several of them protesting direct to the White House.

Pressure against the cleanup program was also exerted by Sen. Andrew Schoepel of Kansas, who in turn was pressured by Walter Scott of the Kansas City Commodity Exchange. Kansas City grain dealers went so far as to threaten that they could not handle the Southwest grain now stored in farm bins if the government persisted in its new program. They advocated a voluntary cleanup by the grain industry instead.

The government's cleanup actually had got under way with the encouragement of many millers and all the bakers. With their co-operation, the Food and Drug Administration last fall set standards whereby grain containing more than one rat dropping per pint of grain was condemned for human consumption but classified as O. K. for animal consumption. Likewise grain containing more than 20 surface weevils or other insects, dead or alive, per 1,000 grams of wheat would be declared unfit for human consumption, but could be used for animal food.

The grain trade objected to this partly on the ground that it set up two standards for grain: that for human consumption and that for animals. Grain dealers also claimed that their own voluntary cleanup program was sufficient.

However, Food and Drug Commissioner Charles Crawford and his assistant, George Larick, went ahead with the cleanup program. Immediately there arose an angry demand from the grain lobby that they and two assistants, John L. Harvey and M. R. Stephens, be fired. For a time Mrs. Hobby was on the verge of doing so.

Then, as the scandal over firing Dr. Allen Astin of the Bureau of Standards got hot, advisers cautioned that the Eisenhower administration couldn't afford another firing scandal, and Mrs. Hobby decided to let them remain.

Government Has Weevils Too

Thereafter, pressure was brought on the Agriculture Department and on the White House direct. The Commodity Credit Corporation, the arm of the Agriculture Department which stores grain under the price-support program, was warned that some of its own grain would be declared unfit for human consumption. Under the new inspection program, Secretary Benson was told by grain dealers that about $25,000,000 worth of government grain would be declared weevil-infested.

A meeting was held at the Department of Agriculture, attended by some of the biggest grain men in the country, also dropped veiled threats that they couldn't store the bumper wheat crop this summer which the government must handle for farmers.

Simultaneously, the Senate Agriculture Committee under the prodding of GOP Senator Young of North Dakota hauled up George Larick, Food and Drug deputy commissioner, gave him a stiff senatorial third degree.

Testifying against him was William F. Brooks, executive secretary of the National Grain Trade Council.

Finally, Mrs. Hobby and Secretary Benson tossed in the towel. They issued joint statements abandoning federally inspected grain, said they were going back to the old system of "voluntary co-operation" to prevent grain contamination.

Freak Tornadoes

The Weather Bureau, which predicts the weather but does not make it, has no pat explanation for the record number of tornadoes sweeping across the South this year except this:

Tornadoes are caused by a mass of warm, moist air from the South meeting a cold mass of air from the Northwest, moving down east from the Rockies. The only explanation for the record number of tornadoes is the premature heat in the South this year.

The Weather Bureau has some other interesting observations to make about tornadoes, as follows: a tornado, they point out, is a funnel-shaped, rapidly rotating cloud. Its terrific power is due to the fact that the low air pressure in the black cone differs greatly from

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Some Imaginary History

WASHINGTON

The true beginning of the disaster that overtook American policy in the year 1960, was neither the failure of the State Department to grasp the gravity of the Moravsk-Ostrava crisis, nor the reluctance of the White House to respond to the military challenge. In this case it is the historian's privilege to case new light, for the first time illuminating one of the great mysteries of this crucial period.

This humble beginning, then, from which such immense consequences were later to flow, was a meeting of Comrades (later generals) Radek and Putilov, then the deputy chiefs of the American and Central European Section of the MVD.

It is curious to reflect upon the dull trappings in which the remorseless prophecies of history often clothe the greatest events. For what could be less stirring to the pulses than a government office of the fourth class, with its scarred desks, its battered filing cabinets, and its gloomy outlook? And with all due respect to their heroic service, Comrades Radek and Putilov seemed to have been well described, both in appearance and character, by the subsequent minute to higher headquarters by one of their superior officers: "These men are more for use than show. But how useful they have been!"

In the period of this meeting between Comrades Radek and Putilov (which was held, of course, to discuss the MVD's contribution to the great "Plan for Central Europe") the people of the United States were deeply troubled by unfortunate revelations of certain prior successes of the MVD and its agents.

Ignored New Methods

Comrade Putilov brought to the meeting his expert knowledge of the elaborate security procedures which the American government had lately instituted, because of these revelations. Comrade Radek's contribution was his information concerning the American corps of experts in his own field of study.

The latter lives of these two Heroes of the State were regrettably embittered by a contest for credit and honor. But as we winnow their numerous memoranda (each denying to the other any credit whatever) it seems clear that Comrade Radek had the first inspiration. It was Radek, at any rate, who remarked that he "only feared seven members of the American foreign service." Only these seven, he said, truly understood the baroque complexities of the Central European situation, or could correctly foretell the improbable reactions of the Central "It would be the same as a great victory." Radek is recorded as saying, "if we could only get rid of these seven American experts."

It was Putilov, however, who undoubtedly carried Radek's hint into brilliant and practical execution. The Americans, to be sure, gave him his golden opportunity. Being a people in a late stage of decadence, they had lacked the wisdom to adopt the proven and tested method of insuring loyalty and security. The thumbscrew, the heat-dread head band, the interrogation under lights, even the helpful corrective camp, had all been neglected. Instead, they had chosen to rely upon security officers and security files.

"Unconscious Collaborator"

Comrade Putilov, had the constructive vision (ever honored be his name) to grasp the central fact about this half-hearted system. Rumors of all kinds, reports from an source, intended letters de cachet from personal enemies, maudlin outpourings of disappointed subordinates, were all diligently collected by the American security officers in the American security files. Thus it was easy for Putilov's brave agents to make the security files of any American official read like the mingled life histories of Emperor Nero and the lamented Alger Hiss.

At this interesting moment, moreover, a change of administration in Washington assisted the plans of Comrade Putilov. To the critical post of chief security officer of the State Department, the new American government appointed a man whom Putilov gleefully nicknamed "my unconscious collaborator." This apprentice high official had two useful characteristics. He was deeply suspicious of expertness in any form, and even announced, as he took office, that for a diplomat to learn a foreign language was a symptom of probable subversion. He also believed everything he read in any security file.

The sequel was inevitable. It is unnecessary to charge this history's pages with the trifling details, such as the "unconscious collaborator's" practice of bribing American diplomat's servants, so that the American government paid good money for the stories that Comrade Putilov thoughtfully suggested to these suddenly fortunate Central European maids and housemen. Within a few months time, all seven of the American experts on Central Europe had been dismissed from the service or banished to such humble posts as the Patagonian consulates. Thereafter, the State Department, without eyes or ears, blundered onwards to the final crisis in the manner it is now our happy duty to relate.

(N. B. By no means all the characters, statements, practices and happenings of the foregoing fragment are as imaginary as the fragment itself.)

Finding Peace

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Inquiries constantly come to me asking for some way to prevent more world wars. Instead of answering these letters personally, may I give my answer in this week's column?

Military Strength

Ninety-five per cent of the politicians of every nation appear to believe that the only means of keeping their country out of war is to have a bigger army, a more powerful navy, a greater air force and the most atomic bombs. Of course, this is not the answer. It is like trying to cure an alcoholic by giving him more drinks.

In fact, 2,000 years ago Jesus stated: "For all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." History shows this to have been 100 per cent correct. Any reader who doubts this need only read the lives of the greatest military leaders such as Alexander the Great, Cyrus, Caesar, Genghis Khan, Mohammed, Ivan the Terrible, Cromwell, Napoleon, Bismarck and Hitler.

What Jesus Taught

Thereupon the preachers tell us that pacifism and disarmament are the answer, failing to talk about the Old Testament which was the only Bible that Jesus knew or used. When Jesus preached about "disarmament," He assumed that justice, mercy and intelligence would be substituted therefor. The fact is that if we read the books of the Bible in the order in which they were written, we see that Jesus was talking about the Kingdom of God based upon righteousness and fairness to all people.

Today, I see a possibility of world peace. This will not be brought about alone by the priests and preachers, however earnest and necessary they are. The foundation for the Kingdom of God is the high air pressure in the surrounding atmosphere.

When a tornado hits a house or any other building, the high air pressure in the house is suddenly forced out by the inrushing cone of low air pressure, creating a vacuum in which the cone explodes somewhat like a bomb.

That is the reason for the great destruction caused by tornadoes. The damage isn't caused by strong winds, but by the explosion of the center of the funnel-shaped cloud.

Tornadoes are nearly always preceded by hail or thunder storms, or both. The average path of a tornado is only 1,200 feet wide and the average traveling length of a tornado is only 16 miles. The longest in Weather Bureau history was a 1917 tornado in Illinois and Indiana that traveled 293 miles.

being built by the teachers, scientists and inventors. These include mathematicians, physicists, chemists, metallurgists, psychologists and all others working for humanity in the laboratories of every nation. These men and women are making discoveries which may assure the people of all nations health, intelligence, prosperity and happiness. These are the people whom Jesus would praise were He here today.

Whom Have We To Thank?

Strange to say, we have the big corporations—many of which the U. S. Justice Department is persecuting—to thank for the recent great progress. Last year, over $3,500,000,000 was spent in the United States alone on research to make the world healthier, more intelligent and happier. Two-thirds of this amount was spent by corporations whose stocks are traded in so-called "Wicked Wall Street." The remaining third consisted mostly of government appropriations for which we may praise or belittle Franklin D. Roosevelt and his kind-hearted wife. But the corporations themselves did not make the discoveries—it was some of the 250,000 individuals in their employ.

The electrical machinery and aircraft industries each spent over $400,000,000 on research. The chemical industry (which gave us the wonderful drugs that are blessing humanity today) and the motor vehicle industry each spent $200,000,000 on research. In addition, there are many private funds, such as the Rockefeller Foundation and the new Ford Foundation. Yale University has just set up a fund of $6,000,000 for research in connection with the mental cases which are flooding our hospitals and which many believe are as unnecessary as small pox and cholera plagues.

Opportunities For Small Business

Above I mention only big corporations, but I find that some of our most important discoveries have been by small businesses employing only a few men. Furthermore, I find that many of their humble workers just stumbled on to their discoveries while hunting for something else. Hence, in the last analysis, all our blessings have come from humble individuals, most of whom we have never heard of. ### Individual Student

How to accommodate mass education to the wide variations in talents, desires, tastes and capacities of individuals is a problem of the times that besets the wisest educators. President Dodds of Princeton is critical of public schools for not giving sufficient attention, as he asserts, to these basic differences.

Mass, when it comes to education, is relative. There are large private schools where it is not evident that the individual student receives specialized attention as to curriculum, progress in studies and so on. Nor is the talented student in public schools unrecognized.

No doubt at Princeton, with its present large enrollment, it is difficult to give as much consideration to the individual student as it was several decades ago, when there were fewer students, and requirements as to studies were stricter.

Public discussion of these problems occurred at an alumni meeting in New York the other night of Loomis School, a private institution in Connecticut. The new headmaster, Francis O. Grubbs, made an eloquent and persuasive plea for the teaching of the humanities at the high school level. He said few educators have been willing to recognize the importance of high school years, all the more so since colleges were discarding many liberal arts courses in favor of technical subjects.

Said Mr. Grubbs:

"It brings us to a new definition or a new set of goals: to teach our young people how to think rather than what to think; to give them a real understanding of the respect for the past; to provide them with a basic familiarity with the world around them; to introduce them to the infinite inspiration and solace and enchantment derived from friendship with beauty in music, art and literature; and finally to give them a spiritual thread to tie the things together."

These are noble standards, to which all educators of youth of high school age might well give consideration.

First Hurdle In Europe

The United States, Britain and France agree that concluding an Austrian peace treaty would be the best evidence Russia could give of willingness to end the cold war in Europe. Agreement has already been reached on 54 of 59 clauses in the Austrian draft treaty, and the other five involve trivial differences on which agreement would be easy—if Moscow wanted it.

After the West had made many concessions during the 258 meetings held to work out the treaty, it was obvious to both sides that agreement on the remaining five clauses was almost certain. But Russia, apparently fearful that the West would give in on those minor points, suddenly began to make wholly new demands.

In particular, the Reds refused to conclude any Austrian treaty unless a settlement were first reached on Trieste, which doesn't concern Austria at all.

A settlement on Austria can be concluded in 10 minutes, if Russia wants one. Little remains to be done except to sign on the dotted line. Under wartime agreements, conclusion of a treaty would be followed by withdrawal of troops of both sides from Austria. This would leave Russia with a preponderance of power to influence Austrian policy, for two reasons: Russian armed forces would still be close at hand; Russia owns more than 300 industries in Austria which she took over as "German assets"—war booty.

The catch is, from Russia's standpoint, that under the same wartime agreements Russia would also be called upon to withdraw Red troops from Hungary and Romania if an American treaty were signed. Some observers think Moscow might agree to an Austrian treaty if the West did not insist on Red troop withdrawal from the two satellites. But if the rulers in the Kremlin really want peace why should they want to keep troops in "independent" Romania and Hungary?

Car Owners Anonymous

An introspective character says there actually is such a thing as "new car fever." He says he's observed the symptoms both in himself and in others and almost invariably they follow a pattern.

They go like this: Inattention to the road and attention to a new model car; close attention to published ads on new cars; a campaign of slander and abuse against one's old car; a growing feeling that one owes it to himself to have something better. The fever seems to hit strongest in mid-spring and early fall, he says.

Apparently millions suffer from it. Some are cured only when the shiny new number is eased into the garage. Others are shocked into sensibility just before the final stages of the fever carry them down into the spinning vortex which leads in turn to the loan department in the bank and thence to the dealers.

But, according to an article in the magazine Speed, there seems to be a specific antibiotic for this virus. Many a man who might ordinarily run into the final and fatal stages of new car fever is brought up short because of the high depreciation factor which appraisers apply to his old car.

The article points out that the "annual trade" process—wherein the owner trades his car every year—is losing popularity. The reason? Actual changes in "new models" according to Speed Age, are really superficial. Thus the first year depreciation is a thumping one. It is suggested that there may soon be an organization known as "car owners anonymous."

But a look at traffic reveals that the fever is still running high. To own the latest model has been a consuming American ambition for 30 years. The probability is that it has been planted permanently in the character of the people.

New Air Force Chief

Appointment of General Nathan L. Twining to replace General Hoyt Vandenberg as top officer in the Air Force appears to have been the natural solution of the problem of seeking a good policy maker to be both Air Force boss and this service's representative on the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

General Twining had been heretofore apparent to General Vandenberg's job. But he appears to have the larger qualifications which will be needed to meet the altered mission of the Joint Chiefs.

Apparently one requisite of new top military appointments is the ability to see farther than the needs of the officer's particular service. General Twining has already shown this ability, both in riding herd on factionalism within his own Air Force while pinch hitting as air chief during the long illness of General Vandenberg, and by the manner in which he has handled the problems of liaison with Congress.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Eye Injuries

The eyes are delicate and vision is precious, reasons enough for not taking a chance or delaying treatment when they are injured or infected. These organs do a good job of protecting themselves however, when exposed to trauma the lids shut quickly as the result of a marvelous reflex mechanism. Moreover, a bony frame defends them from all sides except the front.

The eyes also react to minor mishaps by increasing the secretion of tears in an effort to wash away any tiny objects that land on the surface. Furthermore, the eyeball is sensitive and the lids go into spasm, causing such severe pain the individual must make an attempt to eliminate the trespasser before relief is obtained. In this way nature creates an emergency that calls for immediate attention, thus warding off serious consequences. When tears are ineffective in washing away a foreign body, the use of water in an eye-cup may be helpful. If this maneuver fails, more expert care is needed, particularly when there is a possibility that the particle is made of glass, metal, wood, or stone. Some specks produce greater irritation than do others because of chemical changes.

Our eyes are no match for war and modern industry, however. Gunshot, airgun, dynamite, landmines, high explosive shells, missiles, debris of all sort, and flying foreign bodies have caused untold damage to the seeing mechanism. When the penetration is deep, there is danger of loss of both eyes even though repair of the initial injury has been excellent. This is because when one optic is damaged the sound eye may develop sympathetic irritation which will continue until sight in both is destroyed unless the injured eye is removed. This complication is not common but when it takes place quick action is essential to save the unaffected eye. Should the physician recommend removal, the victim must abide by his decision or ask for consultation.

When alkali, acid, or other irritating chemical substances accidentally strike the eye, it should be washed out immediately. The quickest way is to use tap water, step into a shower, or immerse the head in a bucket or basin of water. The eye should be opened and closed frequently while under water to dilute the caustic and wash it out. As soon as this has been done, call the physician for more expert advice. Those working with known chemicals in a factory should always have the proper neutralizer available in case of accident. For example, if acids are being used a solution of sodium bicarbonate should be kept available for emergencies.

Our eyes were never made to withstand the rays produced by various machines and lamps. Neutrons, X-ray, gamma, beta, cathode, gamma, and cosmic rays not only burn but cause cataracts. Serious conjunctivitis may result from ultraviolet rays emanating from the sun, the welder's arc, and quartz mercury vapor lamps. Atomic explosions combine the bad effects of concussion force, flying particles, blinding light, extreme heat, infrared, ultraviolet, beta and neutron radiation. Our inventions present many hazards and it is wise to play safe so far as these rays are concerned. The eyes always should be protected with dark glasses or, in an emergency, with the hands lest irreparable damage ensue.

TOMORROW: Dr. Van Dellen discusses inflammation of the stomach.

DIAGNOSTIC AID

Mrs. J. writes: In your recent article on cancer of the breast you mentioned self-examination as a means of detecting "lumps" in an early stage. How is this done?

REPLY

We have prepared a leaflet describing this technique, which can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

SAGGING ABDOMEN

C. W. writes: Is pot belly in an adult caused entirely by overeating or could it be owing to weak muscles?

REPLY

Both. Other causes include abdominal tumors, pregnancy, and dropsy.

BLOATING AND BILIOUSNESS

R. M. writes: Recently, whenever I eat fresh fruit or raw vegetables (particularly celery) I suffer from bloating and biliousness. Is this a liver or gall bladder disorder?

REPLY

Indigestion is common in liver and gall bladder disturbances but it occurs also in other gastrointestinal disorders. To rule out these conditions, X-rays will be needed.

THROAT "LUMP"

Mrs. H. B. writes: Can you furnish me with information on the imaginary lump in the throat which is called globus hystericus?

REPLY

This condition is not a "lump," nor is the sensation imaginary. In most instances, the feeling stems from tightness in the throat muscles which results from nervous stimulation.

Food And Drug Administration Defeated By Grain Dealers On Question Of Inspection; Cleanup Of Rat-Infested Wheat Halts Under Pressure

WASHINGTON — One of the most amazing backtracks of the Eisenhower administration took place very quietly a few days ago when it reversed a program for keeping rat droppings and weevil waste out of wheat and other grain sold to the American housewife.

The rat-cleanup program had begun last fall, October 15, 1952, under the Democrats, and on April 6 was widened by the Food and Drug Administration under the Republicans. It was then extended to weevil-infested grain.

However, one of the first official acts of Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby after she became a full-fledged member of the Eisenhower cabinet was to suspend this grain-cleanup program by an order issued May 1. The Food and Drug Administration is under her. Simultaneously Secretary of Agriculture Benson, who was co-operating in the grain cleanup, also dropped the program.

The sudden reversal came after 45 carloads of wheat had been seized for having an excess of rat droppings. It also came after the program was vigorously opposed by big grain dealers, with several of them protesting direct to the White House.

Pressure against the cleanup program was also exerted by Sen. Andrew Schoepel of Kansas, who in turn was pressured by Walter Scott of the Kansas City Commodity Exchange. Kansas City grain dealers went so far as to threaten that they could not handle the Southwest grain now stored in farm bins if the government persisted in its new program. They advocated a voluntary cleanup by the grain industry instead.

The government's cleanup actually had got under way with the encouragement of many millers and all the bakers. With their co-operation, the Food and Drug Administration last fall set standards whereby grain containing more than one rat dropping per pint of grain was condemned for human consumption but classified as O. K. for animal consumption. Likewise grain containing more than 20 surface weevils or other insects, dead or alive, per 1,000 grams of wheat would be declared unfit for human consumption, but could be used for animal food.

The grain trade objected to this partly on the ground that it set up two standards for grain: that for human consumption and that for animals. Grain dealers also claimed that their own voluntary cleanup program was sufficient.

However, Food and Drug Commissioner Charles Crawford and his assistant, George Larick, went ahead with the cleanup program. Immediately there arose an angry demand from the grain lobby that they and two assistants, John L. Harvey and M. R. Stephens, be fired. For a time Mrs. Hobby was on the verge of doing so.

Then, as the scandal over firing Dr. Allen Astin of the Bureau of Standards got hot, advisers cautioned that the Eisenhower administration couldn't afford another firing scandal, and Mrs. Hobby decided to let them remain.

Government Has Weevils Too

Thereafter, pressure was brought on the Agriculture Department and on the White House direct. The Commodity Credit Corporation, the arm of the Agriculture Department which stores grain under the price-support program, was warned that some of its own grain would be declared unfit for human consumption. Under the new inspection program, Secretary Benson was told by grain dealers that about $25,000,000 worth of government grain would be declared weevil-infested.

A meeting held at the Department of Agriculture, attended by some of the biggest grain men in the country, also dropped veiled threats that they couldn't store the bumper wheat crop this summer which the government must handle for farmers.

Simultaneously, the Senate Agriculture Committee under the prodding of GOP Senator Young of North Dakota hauled up George Larick, Food and Drug deputy commissioner, gave him a stiff senatorial third degree.

Testifying against him was William F. Brooks, executive secretary of the National Grain Trade Council.

Finally, Mrs. Hobby and Secretary Benson tossed in the towel. They issued joint statements abandoning federally inspected grain, said they were going back to the old system of "voluntary co-operation" to prevent grain contamination.

Freak Tornadoes

The Weather Bureau, which predicts the weather but does not make it, has no pat explanation for the record number of tornadoes sweeping across the South this year except this:

Tornadoes are caused by a mass of warm, moist air from the South meeting a cold mass of air from the Northwest, moving down east from the Rockies. The only explanation for the record number of tornadoes is the premature heat in the South this year.

The Weather Bureau has some other interesting observations to make about tornadoes, as follows: a tornado, they point out, is a funnel-shaped, rapidly rotating cloud. Its terrific power is due to the fact that the low air pressure in the black cone differs greatly from

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Some Imaginary History

WASHINGTON

The true beginning of the disaster that overtook American policy in the year 1960, was neither the failure of the State Department to grasp the gravity of the Moravka-Ostrava crisis, nor the reluctance of the White House to respond to the military challenge. In this case it is the historian's privilege to case new light, for the first time illuminating one of the great mysteries of this crucial period.

This humble beginning, then, from which such immense consequences were later to flow, was a meeting of Comrades (later generals) Radek and Putilov, then the deputy chiefs of the American and Central European Section of the MVD.

It is curious to reflect upon the dull trappings in which the remorseless prophecies of history often clothe the greatest events. For what could be less stirring to the pulses than a government office of the fourth class, with its scarred desks, its battered filing cabinets, and its gloomy outlook? And with all due respect to their heroic service, Comrades Radek and Putilov seemed to have been well described, both in appearance and character, by the subsequent minute to higher headquarters by one of their superior officers: "These men are more for use than show. But how useful they have been!"

In the period of this meeting between Comrades Radek and Putilov (which was held, of course, to discuss the MVD's contribution to the great "Plan for Central Europe") the people of the United States were deeply troubled by unfortunate revelations of certain prior successes of the MVD and its agents.

Ignored New Methods

Comrade Putilov brought to the meeting his expert knowledge of the elaborate security procedures which the American government had lately instituted, because of these revelations. Comrade Radek's contribution was his information concerning the American corps of experts in his own field of study.

The latter lives of these two Heroes of the State were regrettably embittered by a contest for credit and honor. But as we winnow their numerous memoranda (each denying to the other any credit whatever) it seems clear that Comrade Radek had the first inspiration. It was Radek, at any rate, who remarked that he "only feared seven members of the American foreign service." Only these seven, he said, truly understood the baroque complexities of the Central European situation, or could correctly foretell the improbable reactions of the Central

"It would be the same as a great victory." Radek is recorded as saying, "if we could only get rid of these seven American experts."

It was Putilov, however, who undoubtedly carried Radek's hint into brilliant and practical execution. The Americans, to be sure, gave him his golden opportunity. Being a people in a late stage of decadence, they had lacked the wisdom to adopt the proven and tested method of insuring loyalty and security. The thumbscrew, the heated head band, the interrogation under lights, even the helpful corrective camp, had all been neglected. Instead, they had chosen to rely upon security officers and security files.

"Unconscious Collaborator"

Comrade Putilov, had the constructive vision (ever honored be his name) to grasp the central fact about this half-hearted system. Rumors of all kinds, reports from any source, intended letters de cachet from personal enemies, misunderstandings of neurotic women, spiteful outpourings of disappointed subordinates, were all diligently collected by the American security officers in the American security files. Thus it was easy for Putilov's brave agents to make the security files of any American official read like the mingled life histories of Emperor Nero and the lamented Alger Hiss.

At this interesting moment, moreover, a change of administration in Washington assisted the plans of Comrade Putilov. To the critical post of chief security officer of the State Department, the new American government appointed a man whom Putilov gleefully nicknamed "my unconscious collaborator." This apprentice chief official had two useful characteristics. He was deeply suspicious of expertise in any form, and even announced, as he took office, that for a diplomat to learn a foreign language was a symptom of probable subversion. He also believed everything he read in any security file.

The sequel was inevitable. It is unnecessary to charge this history's pages with the trifling details, such as the "unconscious collaborator's" practice of bribing American diplomat's servants, so that the American government paid good money for the stories that Comrade Putilov thoughtfully suggested to these suddenly fortunate Central European maids and housemen. Within a few months time, all seven of the American experts on Central Europe had been dismissed from the service or banished to such humble posts as the Patagonian consulates. Thereafter, the State Department, without eyes or ears, blundered onwards to the final crisis in the manner it is now our happy duty to relate.

(N. B. By no means all the characters, statements, practices and happenings of the foregoing fragment are as imaginary as the fragment itself.)

Finding Peace

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Inquiries constantly come to me asking for some way to prevent more world wars. Instead of answering these letters personally, may I give my answer in this week's column?

Military Strength

Ninety-five per cent of the politicians of every nation appear to believe that the only means of keeping their country out of war is to have a bigger army, a more powerful navy, a greater air force and the most atomic bombs. Of course, this is not the answer. It is like trying to cure an alcoholic by giving him more drinks.

In fact, 2,000 years ago Jesus stated: "For all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." History shows this to have been 100 per cent correct. Any reader who doubts this need only read the lives of the greatest military leaders such as Alexander the Great, Cyrus, Caesar, Genghis Khan, Mohammed, Ivan the Terrible, Cromwell, Napoleon, Bismarck and Hitler.

What Jesus Taught

Thereupon the preachers tell us that pacifism and disarmament are the answer, failing to talk about the Old Testament which was the only Bible that Jesus knew or used. When Jesus preached about "disarmament," He assumed that justice, mercy and intelligence would be substituted therefor. The fact is that if we read the books of the Bible in the order in which they were written, we see that Jesus was talking about the Kingdom of God based upon righteousness and fairness to all people.

Today, I see a possibility of world peace. This will not be brought about alone by the priests and preachers, however earnest and necessary they are. The foundation for the Kingdom of God is the high air pressure in the surrounding atmosphere.

When a tornado hits a house or any other building, the high air pressure in the house is suddenly forced out by the rushing cone of low air pressure, creating a vacuum in which the cone explodes somewhat like a bomb.

That is the reason for the great destruction caused by tornadoes. The damage isn't caused by strong winds, but by the explosion of the center of the funnel-shaped cloud. Tornadoes are nearly always preceded by hail or thunder storms, or both. The average path of a tornado is only 1,200 feet wide and the average traveling length of a tornado is only 16 miles. The longest in Weather Bureau history was a 1917 tornado in Illinois and Indiana that traveled 293 miles.

being built by the teachers, scientists and inventors. These include mathematicians, physicists, chemists, metallurgists, psychologists and all others working for humanity in the laboratories of every nation. These men and women are making discoveries which may assure the people of all nations health, intelligence, prosperity and happiness. These are the people whom Jesus would praise were He here today.

Whom Have We To Thank?

Strange to say, we have the big corporations—many of which the U. S. Justice Department is persecuting—to thank for the recent great progress. Last year, over $3,500,000,000 was spent in the United States alone on research to make the world healthier, more intelligent and happier. Two-thirds of this amount was spent by corporations whose stocks are traded in so-called "Wicked Wall Street." The remaining third consisted mostly of government appropriations for which we may praise or belittle Franklin D. Roosevelt and his kind-hearted wife. But the corporations themselves did not make the discoveries—it was some of the 250,000 individuals in their employ.

The electrical machinery and aircraft industries each spent over $400,000,000 on research. The chemical industry (which gave us the wonderful drugs that are blessing humanity today) and the motor vehicle industry each spent $200,000,000 on research. In addition, there are many private funds, such as the Rockefeller Foundation and the new Ford Foundation. Yale University has just set up a fund of $6,000,000 for research in connection with the mental cases which are flooding our hospitals and which many believe are as unnecessary as small pox and cholera plagues.

Opportunities For Small Business

Above I mention only big corporations, but I find that some of our most important discoveries have been by small businesses employing only a few men. Furthermore, I find that many of their humble workers just stumbled on to their discoveries while hunting for something else. Hence, in the last analysis, all our blessings have come from humble individuals, most of whom we have never heard of. Therefore, I use every opportunity to appeal for the praying individual, whatever his race or color, whether rich or poor. Far too much attention is given by "educators" to "Ph.D.'s" and other degrees. In doing so, I believe they are retarding rather than advancing research.

Changes Planned In Post Office At Frostburg

Alteration Bids Requested June 4

FROSTBURG—Alterations to the entrance vestibule of the Frostburg Post Office are being planned by the Post Office Department to provide greater convenience for the patrons and to eliminate the drafts of air that blow through the building each time the front doors are opened.

The change in the entrance, according to specifications of the General Service Administration, will include the removal of the present circular inner vestibule, which will be replaced with a rectangular compartment with two side doors, one facing the money order department and the other facing the office of the postmaster.

When the job is completed, patrons of the general delivery windows and those having business with the postmaster will enter by the east door of the inner vestibule. Those having business with the money order department and the lock box section, may find it more convenient to use the west door.

The General Service Administration advertised for bids May 14 and specified that all bids will be opened June 4 in Room 7100, 7th and D. Streets, S. W., Washington, D. C.

The proposed changes to the entrance of the Frostburg post-office have been frequently urged by Postmaster Michael J. Byrnes. The present arrangement, according to Post Office employees, has prevented efforts to maintain an even temperature in the building.

Central Students Will Present One-Act Play

LONA CONING — A one-act play will be presented by the students of Central High School at a meeting of the Elementary School PTA Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

Invitations have been sent to Jackson, Rockville, Delmont, and Pekin Parent-Teachers Associations. The parents of all children who will enter the first grade in September have also been asked to attend.

An executive board meeting was held Tuesday, with David Evans, president, presiding. Mrs. Althea Stakem, recording secretary, announced that the association now has 48 members.

The PTA will cooperate with the Boosters Club in blacktopping the rear of the school building and presenting a banner to the room having the most parents present at a PTA meeting. The boards also approved to holding a pre-school clinic tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

Church Dedicates Improved Building

FROSTBURG — The recently remodeled First English Baptist parsonage was dedicated yesterday morning as an educational building containing Sunday School class rooms.

Talks were given by Rev. Donald A. Vossler, pastor; Melvin R. Ward, Howard F. Ward, Mrs. Emily Stewart, Mrs. Howard F. Ward and Mrs. Harry U. Fuller.

The educational building, located on Baptist Street, was vacated recently by Rev. and Mrs. Vossler and family, who now live in the newly-purchased parsonage on East Main Street.

Keyser Fire Auxiliary Marks Anniversary

KEYSER — The 21st Anniversary of the founding of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Vigilant Reel and Hose Company, will be celebrated tomorrow, in the Keyser Fire Hall. The auxiliary was organized on May 19, 1932 through the cooperation of D. D. McKee, who was then president of the company.

The auxiliary has plans for an impromptu program and members have asked that former members, some of whom have retired and some who have not attended regularly, to attend and help in celebrating the anniversary. A social hour will be observed and a short entertainment program will be given.

Hamettes Schedule Second Performance

WESTERNPORT — The Hamettes will give a repeat performance of their program given recently at a talent show, sponsored by the Hammond Street Parent-Teachers Association, in the school auditorium, Friday at 8 p. m.

The cast, in the Hill Billy Kitchen Band, consists of Mrs. Pansy McIntyre, Mrs. Sally Mamelon, Mrs. Kate Shaw, Mrs. Frances LaFon, Mrs. Alvinia Hitt, Mrs. Edwin Ross, Miss Nancy Lawyer, Mrs. Helen Seaber, Mrs. Phyllis Seymour, Mrs. Jean McCarty, Mrs. Maxine Wilt and Mrs. Naomi Kuhnle.

Club Meets Tonight

LONA CONING — The Young Women's Club will meet at 6:45 p. m. today to go to the Potomac Edison Home Service Office, Frostburg. Miss Catherine Close and Miss Freda Nutter will give demonstrations to the Young Women's club group.

43 Barton High Students Named On Honor Roll

BARTON — Freshmen were at the top of the list with nine members among 43 Barton High School students on the most recent honor roll.

Seniors on the list include June Mowbray, Shirley McKiever, Janet Wilt, Elaine Myers and Robert Kirk. Juniors named include Shirley Sutherland, Sally Hyde, Regina Derham, Joan Green, Nellie Russell, Helene Snyder, Dixie Lee Truly and Shirley Chappell.

Sophomores on the list are Glendora Broadwater, Aurora Mowbray, Retha Derham, Juanita Deniker, Colleen Broadwater, and Maxine Russell. The nine freshmen were Lois Colmer, Rae Ann Frenzel, Judy Dye, Carole Inskeep, Mary Shuhart, Zennie Mackley, Carolyn Riggelman, Carol Metz and Richard Bennett.

From the eighth grade those on the honor roll are Shirley Snyder, Sally Broadwater, Patty Broadwater, Carol Green, Dixie Lee Clark, Rasolene McKenzie, Carolyn Kirk and John Mummert. Seventh graders included Ann Foutz, Kenneth Metz, Jean Moore, Betty Lou Preston, Elaine Russell, Helena Broadwater and Ruth Deniker.

Stevenson Honored On 82nd Birthday

MIDLAND — Henry Stevenson, Paradise Street, was given a surprise birthday party recently by his daughters, Mrs. James Blair and Mrs. Robert Blair, on his 82nd birthday.

Others present were James and Robert Blair, sons-in-law; Thomas Blair, a grandson; Mrs. Carl Donald, a granddaughter; Carl and Marvin Donald, great grandsons; Mrs. Hester Robertson, a sister, and Mrs. Jennie Blair and Mr. and Mrs. Clem Stakem.

Stevenson is a retired coal miner who worked 65 years in the George's Creek area mines. Other members of the family who could not attend were Henry (Tubby) Blair, stationed in Japan with the Army; Robert Blair, Jr., with the Army in Alaska; Mr. and Mrs. James Blair, Petersburg, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Blair and son, Jimmie, Hagerstown; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevenson, Akron, Ohio, and Charles Blair, Boston.

Crowe To Head Mountain District

FROSTBURG — Kenneth Crowe was named district chairman of Mountain District, Boy Scouts of America, at an election held Thursday at City Hall.

Robert Jones was elected district vice chairman. They will take office July 1, and a district commissioner will be elected later.

Dr. Adam Baer, present chairman, presided over the annual business meeting and heard reports from the various operating committees.

Mrs. Edward Eisentrout has returned to her home from Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she had been a surgical patient for two weeks.

Frank Wilson, Church Hill, is convalescing at his home following a minor operation at Reeves Clinic, Westernport.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Eisentrout are home after a two-week vacation with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. George Little, Painesville, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Sabatow, Washington, D. C., were recent guests of Mrs. Nellie Allen, Paradise Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robertson, Waynesboro, Va., visited Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Robertson the past week.

Mrs. Richard Elliott is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Z. K. Ponders and family in Hagerstown.

Miss Louise Williams, Washington, D. C., recently visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Carr.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Eisentrout and son, Harry, Jr., and Mrs. Craze, LaVale, visited friends here and attended the service at the Methodist Church.

Edward MacMillan, Baltimore, visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMillan for a few days.

Over 40 members of Midland, Woodland and Shaft Churches attended the funeral of their pastor's father, Lewis Emerick, in Eckhart. Mrs. Frances Briner, Cumberland, visited her son, John, and his family.

Mrs. Troy Is Installed As Head Of Moorefield Women

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Mrs. Richard Troy was installed as president of the Woman's Club for the coming year at the annual Spring Banquet in Hotel McNeill.

Other officers installed by Mrs. R. S. Kuykendall Sr., are Mrs. M. H. Maxwell, first vice president; Mrs. C. B. Bishoff, second vice president; Mrs. J. W. Kuykendall, secretary, and Miss Elizabeth Wilson treasurer.

James R. Neiley, exchange teacher in the Petersburg High School, from Northern Ireland, was guest speaker. The banquet scheme was international and Neiley spoke on the subject of international relations and the U. N. An interesting fact that he brought out was that 14 of America's 33 presidents had been of Ulster descent and that Ulster men felt they had a great part in the building of America since so many of them had been active in our War for Independence.

Changes Planned In Post Office At Frostburg

Alteration Bids Requested June 4

FROSTBURG—Alterations to the entrance vestibule of the Frostburg Post Office are being planned by the Post Office Department to provide greater convenience for the patrons and to eliminate the drafts of air that blow through the building each time the front doors are opened.

The change in the entrance, according to specifications of the General Service Administration, will include the removal of the present circular inner vestibule, which will be replaced with a rectangular compartment with two side doors, one facing the money order department and the other facing the office of the postmaster. When the job is completed, patrons of the general delivery windows and those having business with the postmaster will enter by the east door of the inner vestibule. Those having business with the money order department and the lock box section, may find it more convenient to use the west door.

The General Service Administration advertised for bids May 14 and specified that all bids will be opened June 4 in Room 7100, 7th and D. Streets, S. W., Washington, D. C.

The proposed changes to the entrance of the Frostburg post office have been frequently urged by Postmaster Michael J. Byrnes. The present arrangement, according to Post Office employees, has prevented efforts to maintain an even temperature in the building.

Central Students Will Present One-Act Play

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 17 (INS)—There's a wonderful trip ahead for Debbie Reynolds, and at the same time a wonderful part in a picture. Debbie is being sought for the role of Jeanne Crain's sister in "Gentlemen Marry Brunettes," the Mary Anita Loos-Richard Sale picture.

I asked Dore Schary if he is lending young Debbie, and he said it looked very favorable and that negotiations are very much on.

Mary Anita and Richard left today to spend four days with Anita Loos, who I don't need to tell you, is Mary Anita's famous aunt and one of my favorite friends.

Just before Shelley Winters and Vittorio Gassman took off for a weekend holiday, I talked to them on the telephone.

Shelley said she couldn't believe Vittorio is home—she hadn't seen him for seven months. Then Vittorio got on the phone and said his daughter is beautiful, but no more beautiful than her mother.

When I said that his English is greatly improved, he answered, "that's because I talked so many times on the telephone to Shelley." Both figured that at least 20 percent of their income went to the telephone company.

A letter from a Marine in Korea to Mala Powers has been handed to me by Mala, who devotes much of her time writing to our boys. She is very popular since she visited Korea, and gets hundreds of letters. Many of them, she says, ask the same question as the Marine.

He writes, "why don't we get first run movies over here like we did during World War II? Isn't this war good enough? Sometimes the new troops have to wait a year to see a movie they haven't seen in the states."

"Please, Mala, can't you do something about it?" I'd like to add my two cents and say, please studios, can't something be done about this?

I've never heard Joan Crawford rave about another up and coming actress the way she does about 22-year-old, blonde India Adams, who is in Joan's picture, "Torch Song."

"India has everything," Joan told me. "She's beautiful and she has a wonderful voice. Although she was born in Baltimore she's a graduate of Hollywood high school. She needs experience, of course," Joan added, "but she's a natural for the screen."

"Will you put her under contract?" I asked India's enthusiastic sponsor.

"Well, we're working toward that," Joan replied. "Do you know we'll bring in 'Torch Song' on schedule—twenty-one days!"

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Farley Granger has discovered Elaine Stewart and vice versa—two dates in one week.

Lisette Vereca, former Roumanian actress, has so much money that the $50,000 she is willing to spend on her TV show is a drop in the bucket. Another rich man prefers Lisette.

Janis Paige is taking horseback lessons in Las Vegas from Rex Bell, Clara Bow's husband. Well, Rex is the one who knows horses, horses, horses, being a rancher by trade.

Marlon Brando, who seldom buys anything, has purchased a $1000 bond for Israel.

The zany Ritzes made the Copacabana — their first appearance there.

Paulette Goddard's glamor competition in "Sins Of Jezebel" is Margia Dean of the Greek nobility — don't know what branch, but I always believe the publicity given me.

Vic Damone is on his way to New York for engagements at the Paramount Theatre at a big salary.

I'm glad, he did such a good job in the army. His next picture, "Hit The Deck," at MGM, isn't quite ready to go.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Attack On Cops Lands Four Youths In Jail

BALTIMORE, May 15 (AP)—An attack on two off-duty policemen today resulted in two-year prison sentences for four young men, 17 to 21 years old.

Patrolmen George D. Price Jr. and Melvin Brown testified they were beaten with sticks, stones and a beer bottle. The officers are brothers-in-law.

Magistrate Martin K. Miller imposed the heavy penalties after observing: "I'm not going to tolerate gangs of young hoodlums attacking policemen."

Price testified he was crossing a street from his home to a store just after midnight when he almost was run down by three speeding cars.

Price stopped the cars and was joined by Brown. They said 15 youngsters piled out of the three machines and started the melee. Neighbors turned in a riot call.

The two officers were treated at a hospital for bruises and scratches.

CSMC Rally Is Set Sunday

The annual rally of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade will be held next Sunday at 3 p. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Church.

Rev. Marius Elsner, OFM, Cap., assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, will be speaker.

An invitation has been sent to Rt. Rev. Louis C. Vaeth, Baltimore Archbishop, director of the Society of the Propagation of the Faith.

A number of awards will be made to Cumberland students for their outstanding activities.

A procession will be held with the girl units meeting in SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall at 2:30 p. m. and the boy units at SS. Peter and Paul School at the same time.

The various units to carry banners with their insignia are groups from Catholic Girls Central High School, St. Mary's High School, Ursuline Academy, LaSalle High School, and the Lurana Veterans' Unit comprised of Catholic high school graduates.

Kickback Probe Set For May 27

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—A federal grand jury will start an investigation May 27 into the use of funds allotted to the office of Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett (R-Calif.) for clerk hire.

Government sources indicated the case involves alleged "kickbacks" of pay by employees for political purposes.

Announcement of the grand jury inquiry was made simultaneously by Atty. Gen. Brownell and Leo A. Rover, U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia.

Rover said the case before the grand jury will be handled by assistant U. S. Attorneys William Hitz and William Becker and will take several days to present.

Word was received from California that John Hardaway, Bramblett's former campaign manager, and Mrs. Hardaway were summoned to appear before the grand jury with records of their associations with the congressman and his wife.

Bramblett told a reporter "I don't know anything about the case." He said he would consult his attorney.

Bramblett, 52, was re-elected to his fourth term in the House last November. He is a member of the House Agriculture Committee. His home is in Pacific Grove, Calif.

Government sources disclosed that the Bramblett case resulted from complaints filed with the Justice Department and the U. S. district attorney here before the Republican administration took office in January.

WORST ERRORS OF ALL

WHAT is the worst possible fundamental mistake anyone can make during the play of the cards? Is it failing to pay close attention and thus overlooking some crucial development? Or is it still worse to forget what is the contract? Had as either of these may be, it is still worse to do both on the same hand. Yet rather good players have been known to experience temporary aberrations that had, and there is even the case of one of the world's greatest players of all time, in perhaps the most famous match ever played, thinking the contract was No Trumps when it actually was diamonds.

If you want a more glamorous summer, now is the time to summerize your beauty! Here is the way.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Summerize your car and your house and you add to the convenience, efficiency and comfort of all who use them. Summerize yourself and you add to your glamour and the pleasure of all who see and know you. You make the heat much more bearable for yourself as well.

If you wish to look and feel impervious to summer's discomforts, now is the time to take precautions. Provide yourself with a minimum basic wardrobe of crisp, cool, easy-to-care-for clothes and accessories — and sufficient well-fitted "air-conditioned" foundations to look your trimmest. Have your tresses shaped and permanented if necessary. Inspect your cosmetics to make sure they will color-match a deepening complexion or tan and lie smooth, silken and transparent on your skin. Stock a plentiful supply of refreshing cologne so you'll never be tempted to stint in its use.

Lightened Calorie Load

And if winter has left you in a lousy condition, just look what lightening your calorie load and a daily workout can do—yes, even by vacation time! They can slim you down, refashion your figure, promote dewiness of skin and lustrousness of locks, add to your grace abilities and contribute much to your comfort in hot weather!

As an eating pattern, try these menus: Breakfast—tangerine juice (frozen), 1 toasted bran muffin with 1/4 pat butter, 1 coddled egg, black coffee. At noon—a salad of chicory, lettuce and escarole with cottage cheese, topped with a non-fattening dressing made from 2 tbs. canned tomato juice, 1 tsp. tarragon vinegar and a dash of onion juice. For beverage, 1 glass of buttermilk. Dinner can consist of London broil, steamed yellow beans, chopped spinach, sliced to-

Youth Sentenced In Shooting Case

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in sentencing a 17-year-old Westernport youth to 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory for Males Saturday in Circuit Court said the boy will be able to get psychiatric treatment and discipline at the institution.

The youth, Richard E. Kearns, was found guilty of assault in the shooting of a classmate at Bruce High School in the woods near Westernport more than a month ago.

Victim of the shooting, Donald R. Wilson, 17, had testified he believed the shooting by Kearns was deliberate. The Wilson youth was shot in the abdomen and spent two weeks in the hospital. The .22 caliber rifle bullet remains in the muscles of his back.

The Kearns youth has lived with an uncle in Westernport for about a year. He came to this county from Fairfax, Va., where he witnessed the murder of his mother and suicide of her murderer.

"Much tragedy has come into your young life which may have left you emotionally unstable," Judge Harris told the youth. Treatment will prepare him to become rehabilitated, the jurist observed. Judge Harris summed up the case as he found Kearns not guilty on four counts of the indictment assault to kill, maim, disfigure or disfigure. He found the youth guilty of assault.

He said he failed to find sufficient evidence of the four more serious charges of assault, but added there is ample proof of assault.

Jewish Group Confirms Class

A banquet at the Cumberland Country Club next Saturday night will conclude the first phase of the centennial celebration of B'nai Chayim Congregation, the local reform Jewish group that began its religious identity in 1853.

Previous to that banquet confirmation exercises were held at the Temple yesterday at 10 a. m. The Confirmation class includes: Ellen Beneman, Fern Kaplan, Carol Jean Hersch, George Eskin, Arthur Lazarus and Richard Schwalb. The parents of the Confirmants held a reception in the Temple Vestry rooms in the afternoon.

An Institute on Judaism is scheduled Thursday 8 p. m. This will be an inter-faith meeting in which Rabbi Samuel Umen, Rabbi Joseph Schimelman, Rabbi Harold Silver, of Pittsburgh, Pa., Rabbi Nathan Kaber, of Altoona, Pa., Rev. Edgar Hammersla, Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson and Rev. Dr. Paul V. Taylor will participate.

On Friday, May 22, the congregation will hold a Centennial service at which the guest speaker will be Dr. Samuel S. Cohon, Professor of Theology, Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati.

All services are open to the public.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 17 (INS)—There's a wonderful trip ahead for Debbie Reynolds, and at the same time a wonderful part in a picture. Debbie is being sought for the role of Jeanne Crain's sister in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," the Mary Anita Loos-Richard Sale picture.

I asked Dore Schary if he is lending young Debbie, and he said it looked very favorable and that negotiations are very much on.

Mary Anita and Richard left today to spend four days with Anita Loos, who I don't need to tell you, is Mary Anita's famous aunt and one of my favorite friends.

Just before Shelley Winters and Vittorio Gassman took off for a weekend holiday, I talked to them on the telephone.

Shelley said she couldn't believe Vittorio is home—she hadn't seen him for seven months. Then Vittorio got on the phone and said his daughter is beautiful, but no more beautiful than her mother.

When I said that his English is greatly improved, he answered, "that's because I talked so many times on the telephone to Shelley." Both figured that at least 20 percent of their income went to the telephone company.

A letter from a Marine in Korea to Mala Powers has been handed to me by Mala, who devotes much of her time writing to our boys. She is very popular since she visited Korea, and gets hundreds of letters. Many of them, she says, ask the same question as the Marine.

He writes, "why don't we get first run movies over here like we did during World War II? Isn't this war good enough? Sometimes the new troops have to wait a year to see a movie they haven't seen in the states."

"Please, Mala, can't you do something about it?" I'd like to add my two cents and say, please studios, can't something be done about this?

I've never heard Joan Crawford rave about another up and coming actress the way she does about 22-year-old, blonde India Adams, who is in Joan's picture, "Torch Song."

"India has everything," Joan told me. "She's beautiful and she has a wonderful voice. Although she was born in Baltimore she's a graduate of Hollywood high school. She needs experience, of course," Joan added, "but she's a natural for the screen."

"Will you put her under contract?" I asked India's enthusiastic sponsor.

"Well, we're working toward that," Joan replied. "Do you know we'll bring in 'Torch Song' on schedule—twenty-one days!"

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Farley Granger has discovered Elaine Stewart and vice versa—two dates in one week.

Lisette Vere, former Roumanian actress, has so much money that the $50,000 she is willing to spend on her TV show is a drop in the bucket. Another rich man prefers Lisette.

Janis Paige is taking horseback lessons in Las Vegas from Rex Bell, Clara Bow's husband. Well, Rex is the one who knows horses, horses, horses, being a rancher by trade.

Marlon Brando, who seldom buys anything, has purchased a $1000 bond for Israel.

The zany Ritzes made the Copacabana — their first appearance there.

Paulette Goddard's glamor competition in "Sins Of Jezebel" is Margia Dean of the Greek nobility — don't know what branch, but I always believe the publicity given me.

CSMC Rally Is Set Sunday

The annual rally of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade will be held next Sunday at 3 p. m. in SS. Peter and Paul Church.

Rev. Marius Elsner, OFM, Cap., assistant pastor of SS. Peter and Paul Church, will be speaker.

An invitation has been sent to Rt. Rev. Louis C. Vaeth, Baltimore Archbishop, director of the Society of the Propagation of the Faith.

A number of awards will be made to Cumberland students for their outstanding activities.

A procession will be held with the girl units meeting in SS. Peter and Paul Parish Hall at 2:30 p. m. and the boy units at SS. Peter and Paul Church at the same time.

The various units to carry banners with their insignia are groups from Catholic Girls Central High School, St. Mary's High School, Ursuline Academy, LaSalle High School, and the Lurana Veterans' Unit comprised of Catholic high school graduates.

Summertime your car and your house and you add to the convenience, efficiency and comfort of all who use them. Summerize yourself and you add to your glamour and the pleasure of all who see and know you. You make the heat much more bearable for yourself as well.

If you wish to look and feel impervious to summer's discomforts, now is the time to take precautions. Provide yourself with a minimum basic wardrobe of crisp, cool, easy-to-care-for clothes and accessories — and sufficient well-fitted "air-conditioned" foundations to look your trimmest. Have your tresses shaped and permanented if necessary. Inspect your cosmetics to make sure they will color-match a deepening complexion or tan and lie smooth, silken and transparent on your skin. Stock a plentiful supply of refreshing cologne so you'll never be tempted to stint in its use.

Lightened Calorie Load
And if winter has left you in a lousy condition, just look what lightening your calorie load and a daily workout can do—yes, even by vacation time! They can slim you down, refashion your figure, promote dewiness of skin and lustrousness of locks, add to your grace abilities and contribute much to your comfort in hot weather!

As an eating pattern, try these menus: Breakfast—tangerine juice (frozen), 1 toasted bran muffin with 1/4 pat butter, 1 coddled egg, black coffee. At noon—a salad of chicory, lettuce and escarole with cottage cheese, topped with a non-fattening dressing made from 2 tbs. canned tomato juice, 1 tsp. tarragon vinegar and a dash of onion juice. For beverage, 1 glass of buttermilk. Dinner can consist of London broil, steamed yellow beans, chopped spinach, sliced to-mat topped with minced green pepper (no dressing), baked cinnamon apple, and a sugarless beverage. Keeping calorie counts in mind, you can vary these menus endlessly.

Figure Enhancer
For a top-to-toe trimmer, perform this routine: Kneel on the floor and pull your body taut. Raise both arms overhead and interlock your thumbs. Stretch your left leg out to the side. Swing arms and trunk over toward your outstretched foot. Try to touch it. Slowly return to starting position. Alternating sides, repeat fifteen times each day.

For similar menus and exercises, send to this newspaper for our complimentary booklet, "Summerizing Your Beauty," inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. You will find it in a Tomorrow: The "Question Box."

Youth Sentenced In Shooting Case

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in sentencing a 17-year-old Westernport youth to 18 months in the Maryland Reformatory for Males Saturday in Circuit Court said the boy will be able to get psychiatric treatment and discipline at the institution.

The youth, Richard E. Kearns, was found guilty of assault in the shooting of a classmate at Bruce High School in the woods near Westernport more than a month ago.

Victim of the shooting, Donald R. Wilson, 17, had testified he believed the shooting by Kearns was deliberate. The Wilson youth was shot in the abdomen and spent two weeks in the hospital. The .22 caliber rifle bullet remains in the muscles of his back.

The Kearns youth has lived with an uncle in Westernport for about a year. He came to this county from Fairfax, Va., where he witnessed the murder of his mother and suicide of her murderer.

"Much tragedy has come into your young life which may have left you emotionally unstable," Judge Harris told the youth. Treatment will prepare him to become rehabilitated, the jurist observed.

Judge Harris summed up the case as he found Kearns not guilty on four counts of the indictment assault to kill, maim, disable or disfigure. He found the youth guilty of assault.

He said he failed to find sufficient evidence of the four more serious charges of assault, but added there is ample proof of assault.

Jewish Group Confirms Class

A banquet at the Cumberland Country Club next Saturday night will conclude the first phase of the centennial celebration of B'r Chayim Congregation, the local reform Jewish group that began its religious identity in 1853.

Previous to that banquet confirmation exercises were held at the Temple yesterday at 10 a. m. The Confirmation class includes: Ellen Beneman, Fern Kaplan, Carol Jean Hersch, George Eskin, Arthur Lazarus and Richard Schwab. The parents of the Confirmants held a reception in the Temple Vestry rooms in the afternoon.

An Institute on Judaism is scheduled Thursday 8 p. m. This will be an inter-faith meeting in which Rabbi Samuel Umen, Rabbi Provide yourself with a minimum basic wardrobe of crisp, cool, easy-to-care-for clothes and accessories — and sufficient well-fitted "air-conditioned" foundations to look your trimmest. Have your tresses shaped and permanented if necessary. Inspect your cosmetics to make sure they will color-match a deepening complexion or tan and lie smooth, silken and transparent on your skin. Stock a plentiful supply of refreshing cologne so you'll never be tempted to stint in its use.

Summertime your car and your house and you add to the convenience, efficiency and comfort of all who use them. Summerize yourself and you add to your glamour and the pleasure of all who see and know you. You make the heat much more bearable for yourself as well.

If you wish to look and feel impervious to summer's discomforts, now is the time to take precautions. Provide yourself with a minimum basic wardrobe of crisp, cool, easy-to-care-for clothes and accessories — and sufficient well-fitted "air-conditioned" foundations to look your trimmest. Have your tresses shaped and permanented if necessary. Inspect your cosmetics to make sure they will color-match a deepening complexion or tan and lie smooth, silken and transparent on your skin. Stock a plentiful supply of refreshing cologne so you'll never be tempted to stint in its use.

Lightened Calorie Load
And if winter has left you in a lousy condition, just look what lightening your calorie load and a daily workout can do—yes, even by vacation time! They can slim you down, refashion your figure, promote dewiness of skin and lustrousness of locks, add to your grace abilities and contribute much to your comfort in hot weather!

As an eating pattern, try these menus: Breakfast—tangerine juice (frozen), 1 toasted bran muffin with 1/4 pat butter, 1 coddled egg, black coffee. At noon—a salad of chicory, lettuce and escarole with cottage cheese, topped with a non-fattening dressing made from 2 tbs. canned tomato juice, 1 tsp. tarragon vinegar and a dash of onion juice. For beverage, 1 glass of buttermilk. Dinner can consist of London broil, steamed yellow beans, chopped spinach, sliced to-mat topped with minced green pepper (no dressing), baked cinnamon apple, and a sugarless beverage. Keeping calorie counts in mind, you can vary these menus endlessly.

For a top-to-toe trimmer, perform this routine: Kneel on the floor and pull your body taut. Raise both arms overhead and interlock your thumbs. Stretch your left leg out to the side. Swing arms and trunk over toward your outstretched foot. Try to touch it. Slowly return to starting position. Alternating sides, repeat fifteen times each day.

For similar menus and exercises, send to this newspaper for our complimentary booklet, "Summerizing Your Beauty," inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. You will find it in a Tomorrow: The "Question Box."

Five Oppose Dark Star In Pimlico Test

Preakness Prep Scheduled Today

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Dark Star, the brightest name in horse racing since his stunning conquest of Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby, warms up in the Preakness Prep tomorrow for Saturday's $100,000 Preakness at Pimlico.

Five other 3-year-olds colts have been entered in the mile-and-sixteenth run for exercise and the comparatively small purse of $7,500, but the Dancer isn't among them.

Dancer Cops Withers

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's big grey, beaten only in the Derby, got his tightener last Saturday by running away with the Withers Mile at Belmont for his twelfth victory in 13 starts. He picked up $23,050 for his four-length triumph over Saxon Stable's Invigorator, the third horse in the Derby.

Ready to oppose Dark Star in the Preakness Prep are three other colts which bowed to the pride of Cain Hoy Stable in the Churchill Downs race May 2—Eugene Constantin Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem, fourth in the Derby, Mrs. Gordon Gubberson's Correspondent, fifth, and Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War, ninth.

Rounding out the probable Prep field are Darby Dan Farm's Lord Jeffery, untied yet this year, and Bay View Stable's Country Gossip.

Draws Top Weight

Dark Star, with regular Jockey Henry Moreno, drew top weight of 122 pounds for the race, which is a furlong shorter than the Preakness.

Royal Bay Gem, victor in the Jersey Stakes at Garden State one week after the Derby, will pack 118 with Jimmy Combest in the saddle.

The four others were assigned 114.

Rosecroft Raceway Will Open Tonight

OXON HILL, Md., May 17 (AP)—The fast moving harness racing sport opens its fifth year here and sixth in Maryland with pari-mutuel betting at Rosecroft Raceway tomorrow night.

Rosecroft, which got off to a year's delayed start, has emerged as the top betting establishment of the four harness tracks in the state.

It set a new betting high for 20 nights last year with $6,718,525.

Senators Lose, 7-3

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The surging Chicago White Sox pounded three Washington pitchers for 12 hits, including a two-run homer by Sam Mele, and defeated the Senators, 7-3, today. Saul Rogovin yielded 11 hits but went the distance to post his second victory, Chicago.

Finding Peace—Babson

Great changes are ahead. Whatever may happen during the next few years, I am a great optimist as to the future of our grandchildren. The atomic bomb is not going to destroy the world; it will free the world. It has already started a new line of thinking. We will enter a period when our newspapers will no longer feature "cold wars" or "hot wars," but will again feature new discoveries: Men like Caxton who pioneered the printing press (1475) which opened the minds of men, Eli Whitney who invented the cotton gin (1793) which developed a great export trade, James Watt (1769) and Isaac Merritt Singer (1851) who spurred the industrial development of the United States, Thomas Edison, Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller who laid the basis for America's present prosperity. We also should remember Pasteur to whom we all owe much of our health and happiness.

Will We Have War?

World War I did not accomplish anything except to lead to World War II. Even this second world war, every nation lost. Yet we are now discussing World War III. Only research and religion can prevent World War III. If communism had not denied God and truth, it might now win; but having chosen the sword, it will surely die by the sword.

Our politicians foolishly talk about "Guns versus Butter." Instead, we should talk about "Guns versus New Ideas." For either of these to be useful, we are dependent upon humble individuals. Such people may be found in any community. We should encourage them, never laugh at them or ask them if they have a college degree!

Vukovich Gets Pole Position Memorial Day

Averages 138.392 MPH In Indianapolis Test

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 17 (INS)—Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., roared around the Indianapolis Speedway track at an average of 138.392 miles per hour to qualify for the May 30, 500-mile classic and apparently clinch the pole position spot.

The pole position, which is on the inside of the first wave of three of 133 qualifying cars, goes to the driver who makes the best time on the first of four days of trials.

Freddie Agabashian of Albany, Calif., captured the pole position last year with a qualifying time of 1:38.010.

Vukovich was driving the same car over the 10-mile qualifying distance that he drove to near victory last year. He was forced to give up his No. 1 position and abandon the race when his steering wheel broke with only eight laps to go. Vukovich was driving a Howard Keck Special.

Shortly after a brief postponement in trials due to rain, Jack McGrath of Pasadena, Calif., driving a No. 5, qualified with a 1:36.602 miles per hour. He was driving a Hinkle Special, owned by Jack B. Hinkle of Wichita, Kas. Agabashian, driving a Gracior Automotive Special, qualified with 1:37.546 miles per hour.

Andy Linden of Los Angeles, driving a Rotary Engineering Corp. of Indianapolis car, qualified with 1:36.060, while Jerry Hoyt, of Indianapolis, driving a John Zink Special from Tulsa, Okla., had a qualifying 1:35.731.

Some 80 drivers will attempt to qualify in the trials which started today and are scheduled to be resumed next Saturday and Sunday.

Bucs Lose Pair To Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs swept a double-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2 and 7-3, before 7,745 fans today to move into sixth place in National League standings.

The second game was called after six and a half innings due to darkness after a chilly drizzle delayed the start of the first game 15 minutes. Paul Minner and Johnny Klippstein were the winning pitchers.

Baggett Makes Ace

John Baggett shot a hole-in-one Saturday during a first round match in the Cumberland Country Club's spring golf tournament.

He registered his ace on the 12th hole with a four iron and turned in an 88 for the opening round.

Saturday Sports In Brief

[By The Associated Press]

CREW

WASHINGTON—Navy's Olympic oarsmen ran their unbeaten string to 18 by winning the nation's sprint rowing championship at the 2,000 meter Potomac Rowing Regatta in 6:07.4. Harvard finished a half length behind Wisconsin third.

GENERAL

PHILADELPHIA—Francis Murray, the man who championed unrestricted televising of college football games at University of Pennsylvania athletic director, was fired.

RACING

NEW YORK—Native Dancer ($2.10) won his 12th start in 13 tries as he ran from his only two rivals in the 78th Withers Mile at Belmont Park.

BALTIMORE—Senator Joe ($15.00) was declared the victor in Pimlico's Baltimore Spring Handicap after Squared Away, disqualified, set a new track record of 1:05.4 for 5 1/4 furlongs.

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Jockey Willie Shoemaker made it his fourth victory of the day when he brought home Ali's Gen ($4.30) first in the featured $25,000 Golden State Breeders Handicap at strifetown Hollywood Park opened its meeting.

Swede Wins Marathon

YONKERS, N. Y., May 17 (INS)—Swedish distance star Karl Gustaf Leander won the National AAU Marathon at Yonkers today by nearly half a mile.

The blond Swede, setting his own pace, led virtually all the way over the 26-mile, 385-yard route. His time was two hours, 48 minutes, 12.5 seconds.

John Lafferty of the Boston Athletic Association was second and John Kelley, also of Boston, third.

SPORTS GRILL

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 17 (INS)—Around the National League you hear it said that if you can stop Roy Campanella you can stop the Dodgers.

This is a tremendous tribute to the power that lies in the bat of the bulky Dodger catcher and experience has taught rival clubs that he is the man most to be feared.

Campy, as he is affectionately called on the wrong side of the Brooklyn bridge, is a streak hitter, and when he is hot, as he has been lately, he is even more dangerous than Stan Musial.

He has been crowding .400 since the season started and has averaged almost two runs a game batted in.

How much his big bat means to the Dodgers was shown in the recent three game series with the Phillies when he plastered the Phil's three ace pitchers for four homers and assorted singles and doubles.

Robin Roberts had the Dodgers beaten by a run going into the ninth. He had a man on base, two outs and two strikes on Campy. Thus he needed only one more strike to win. But he never got it.

Campy hit the next pitch for a homer winning the game.

Some said Campy was slipping last year because he hit only .269, with 22 homers and "only" 97 runs batted in.

But what they failed to realize was that Campy was playing with two bad hands all year and in such pain that he carried a rubber sponge in his hand while at bat.

This year his hands are sound and Manager Charley Dressen believes he may break Hack Wilson's record of 190 runs batted in.

There is a new system of judging a pitcher's value by the number of bases he allows. We don't think much of it because some pitchers don't care how many hits are made just so no runs are scored. For instance, the immortal Christy Mathewson would have been a bum under this system because he took it easy especially when working with a good lead.

The old system of rating the pitchers on victories and earned runs is still the best. But we think that the current system of judging a hitter's value could be improved.

Let's say that a hitter walks and goes to third on the next batter's single. The next batter is out on a fly or an infield grounder but this batter, although he has weakened the attack by being put out gets credit for a run batted in. The man who drove the run scores from first to third with a clean single gets no credit whatever except in his batting average.

We think it would be much fairer and get a clearer picture of a hitter's value if a point system were used.

We would give a point for a walk or single, two points for a double, three for a triple and four for a homer. We would give a point for every stolen base.

We also would give a point for every base a runner is advanced. Thus if a batter's single drove a runner from first to third he would get a point for the single and two more points for the number of bases he advanced the runner. A homer with the bases loaded would obviously net the hitter 10 points.

Under such a system a hitter like Campy would stand out in even bolder relief than he does now.

Five Oppose Dark Star In Pimlico Test

Preakness Prep Scheduled Today

BALTIMORE, May 17 (AP)—Dark Star, the brightest name in horse racing since his stunning conquest of Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby, warms up in the Preakness Prep tomorrow for Saturday's $100,000 Preakness at Pimlico.

Five other 3-year-olds could have entered in the mile-and-sixteenth run for exercise and the comparatively small purse of $7,500, but the Dancer isn't among them.

Dancer Cops Withers

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's big grey, beaten only in the Derby, got his tightener last Saturday by running away with the Withers Mile at Belmont for his twelfth victory in 13 starts. He picked up $23,050 for his four-length triumph over Saxon Stable's Invigorator, the third horse in the Derby.

Ready to oppose Dark Star in the Preakness Prep are three other colts which bowed to the pride of Cain Hoy Stable in the Churchill Downs race May 2—Eugene Constant Jr.'s Royal Bay Gem, fourth in the Derby, Mrs. Gordon Gubberson's Correspondent, fifth, and Bruce Campbell's Ram O'War, ninth.

Rounding out the probable Prep field are Darby Dan Farm's Lord Jeffery, untried yet this year, and Bay View Stable's Country Gossip, Draws Top Weight.

Dark Star, with regular jockey Henry Moreno, drew top weight of 122 pounds for the race, which is a furlong shorter than the Preakness.

Royal Bay Gem, victor in the Jersey Stakes at Garden State one week after the Derby, will pack 118 with Jimmy Combest in the saddle.

The four others were assigned 114.

Rosecroft Raceway Will Open Tonight

OXON HILL, Md., May 17 (AP)—The fast moving harness racing sport opens its fifth year here and sixth in Maryland with pari-mutuel betting at Rosecroft Raceway tomorrow night.

Rosecroft, which got off to a year's delayed start, has emerged as the top betting establishment of the four harness tracks in the state.

It set a new betting high for 20 nights last year with $6,718,525.

Senators Lose, 7-3

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The surging Chicago White Sox pounded three Washington pitchers for 12 hits, including a two-run homer by Sam Mele, and defeated the Senators, 7-3, today. Saul Rogovin yielded 11 hits but went the distance to post his second victory, Chicago.

Finding Peace-Babson

Great changes are ahead. Whatever may happen during the next few years, I am a great optimist as to the future of our grandchildren. The atomic bomb is not going to destroy the world; it will free the world. It has already started a new line of thinking. We will enter a period when our newspapers will no longer feature "cold wars" or "hot wars," but will again feature new discoveries. Men like Caxton who pioneered the printing press (1475) which opened the minds of men, Eli Whitney who invented the cotton gin (1793) which developed a great export trade, James Watt (1769) and Isaac Merritt Singer (1851) who spurred the industrial development of the United States, Thomas Edison, Henry Ford and John D. Rockefeller who laid the basis for America's present prosperity. We also should remember Pasteur to whom we owe much of our health and happiness.

Will We Have War?

World War I did not accomplish anything except to lead to World War II. Even this second world war, every nation lost. Yet we are now discussing World War III. Only research and religion can prevent World War III. If communism had not denied God and truth, it might now win; but having chosen the sword, it will surely die by the sword.

Our politicians foolishly talk about "Guns versus Butter." Instead, we should talk about "Guns versus New Ideas." For either of these to be useful, we are dependent upon humble individuals. Such people may be found in any community. We should encourage them, never laugh at them or ask them if they have a college degree!

Vukovich Gets Pole Position Memorial Day

Averages 138.392 MPH In Indianapolis Test

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 17 (INS)—Bill Vukovich of Fresno, Calif., roared around the Indianapolis Speedway track at an average of 138.392 miles per hour to qualify for the May 30, 500-mile classic and apparently clinch the pole position spot.

The pole position, which is on the inside of the first wave of three of 33 qualifying cars, goes to the driver who makes the best time on the first of four days of trials.

Freddie Agabashian of Albany, Calif., captured the pole position last year with a qualifying time of 1:38.010.

Vukovich was driving the same car over the 10-mile qualifying distance that he drove to near victory last year. He was forced to give up his No. 1 position and abandon the race when his steering wheel broke with only eight laps to go.

Vukovich was driving a Howard Keck Special.

Shortly after a brief postponement in trials due to rain, Jack McGrath of Pasadena, Calif., driving car No. 5, qualified with a 1:36.002 miles per hour. He was driving a Hinkle Special, owned by Jack B. Hinkle of Wichita, Kan.

Agabashian, driving a Grancor Automotive Special, qualified with 1:37.546 miles per hour.

Andy Linden of Los Angeles, driving a Rotary Engineering Corp. of Indianapolis car, qualified with 1:36.060, while Jerry Hoyt, of Indianapolis, driving a John Zink Special from Tulsa, Okla., had a qualifying 1:35.731.

Some 80 drivers will attempt to qualify in the trials which started today and are scheduled to be resumed next Saturday and Sunday.

Bucs Lose Pair To Chicago Cubs

CHICAGO, May 17 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs swept a double-header from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-2 and 7-3, before 7,745 fans today to move into sixth place in National League standings.

The second game was called after six and a half innings due to darkness after a chilly drizzle delayed the start of the first game 15 minutes. Paul Minner and Johnny Klippstein were the winning pitchers.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Modern American Classic

"Appointment in Samarra" was described on its first television appearance last Monday on the Robert Montgomery theater as a "modern American classic." I don't see how anyone can quarrel with that description.

The novel, John O'Hara's first, was published in 1934. A world of aristocracy and inherited wealth had broken up, or, at very least, changed drastically and abruptly in the stock market crash of 1929. It's a theme of a major importance, and while O'Hara was not the first to grapple with it, "Appointment in Samarra" was easily the most inspired, most thoughtful and most important book on the subject. In fact, to my mind, O'Hara has never written anything that good since. Its translation to television presented grave difficulties both to the actor and to the adaptor and both, I think, came off triumphantly well.

The novel is the story of a man, Julian English, who is at the very end of his tether, at the very end of the line. He is there partly because of a change in the social and especially the economic environment which he finds intolerable and partly because of certain flaws in his own character. In the book, Julian English, while never a very admirable character, was at least a thoroughly understandable one.

In the television play, with its inevitable compression and by the very nature of the beast, the social changes could be only suggested; the emphasis was thrown on Julian English's character which, as I say, was hardly exemplary. It was a triumph of personal magnetism and acting skill on the part of Robert Montgomery, who played the part, that he could make Julian English at all likeable, at all sympathetic, and he did just that—to my great surprise. I had no idea Montgomery could act that well.

The book, if memory serves, opens with the terrible remorse of Julian English who had, in a moment of drunkenness, thrown a drink in the face of the town social climber at a country club dance. This apparently trivial happening is really a gesture of protest by English against the crumbling of one set of rather lousy social values and the rise of another equally lousy set.

All the incidents leading to the dissolution of English are, on the surface at least, trivial. He is accused unjustly by his wife of taking a drink he didn't take—so he takes one not one but many. He goes off into the night—though not to bed—with the girl of the town boot-logger, a tough customer. He has a fight at the club with several members who disapprove of these things. Yet each of these occurrences represent grave breaches in the social decorum of the country club set in which he is imprisoned.

In the end, his small protests against the order of things drive away his friends, his wife and the one man who could have staved off financial ruin. There is nothing left but suicide. The whole thing takes place in three days—Christmas Eve, Christmas, and the day after Christmas—a period noted for merriment but, in reality, almost given over to heartbreak.

Mr. Montgomery, I guess, has observed the behavior of drunks very, very carefully. There is always a period when a drunk finds, at the bottom of a glass, what he considers the secret of the universe. His eyes glow with the wonder of it all; his mind works with a formidable and terrifying coherence. Mr. Montgomery, I thought, reproduced this state with terrible accuracy. I've never seen any other actor who even understood it.

In fact, the whole cast, especially Margaret Hayes as the beset wife of English, were just exactly right. And a pat on the back is certainly deserved by Irving G. Neiman, the adaptor, who faithfully preserved the spirit of the '30s and who handled with great care the plot lines of what is essentially a hell of a good story.

Incidentally when the Montgomery theater was first announced, we all thought he'd act in a lot of plays. We've seen very little of him. In fact, with a producer and a director at his disposal, there has been some doubt as to just what his duties were over them, beyond introducing each act. I wish they'd put him to work more often.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Modern American Classic

"Appointment in Samarra" was described on its first television appearance last Monday on the Robert Montgomery theater as a "modern American classic." I don't see how anyone can quarrel with that description. The novel, John O'Hara's first, was published in 1934. A world of aristocracy and inherited wealth had broken up, or, at very least, changed drastically and abruptly in the stock market crash of 1929.

It's a theme of a major importance and, while O'Hara was not the first to grapple with it, "Appointment in Samarra" was easily the most inspired, most thoughtful and most important book on the subject. In fact, to my mind, O'Hara has never written anything that good since. Its translation to television presented grave difficulties both to the actor and to the adaptor and both, I think, came off triumphantly well.

The novel is the story of a man, Julian English, who is at the very end of his tether, at the very end of the line. He is there partly because of a change in the social and specially the economic environment which he finds intolerable and partly because of certain flaws in his own character. In the book, Julian English, while never a very admirable character, was at least a thoroughly understandable one.

In the television play, with its inevitable compression and by the very nature of the beast, the social changes could be only suggested; the emphasis was thrown on Julian English's character which, as I say, was hardly exemplary. It was a triumph of personal magnetism and acting skill on the part of Robert Montgomery, who played the part, that he could make Julian English at all likeable, at all sympathetic, and he did just that—to my great surprise. I had no idea Montgomery could act that well.

The book, if memory serves, opens with the terrible remorse of Julian English who had, in a moment of drunkenness, thrown a drink in the face of the town social climber at a country club dance. This apparently trivial happening is really a gesture of protest by English against the crumbling of one set of rather lousy social values and the rise of another equally lousy set.

All the incidents leading to the dissolution of English are, on the surface at least, trivial. He is accused unjustly by his wife of taking a drink he didn't take—so he takes not one but many. He goes off into the night—though not to bed—with the girl of the town boot-legger, a tough customer. He has a fight at the club with several members who disapprove of these things. Yet each of these occurrences represent grave breaches in the social decorum of the country club set in which he is imprisoned.

In the end, his small protests against the order of things drive away his friends, his wife and the one man who could have staved off financial ruin. There is nothing left but suicide. The whole thing takes place in three days—Christmas Eve, Christmas, and the day after Christmas—a period noted for merriment but, in reality, almost equally given over to heartbreak.

Mr. Montgomery, I guess, has observed the behavior of drunks at the bottom of a glass, what he considers the secret of the universe. His eyes glow with the wonder of it all; his mind works with a formidable and terrifying coherence. Mr. Montgomery, I thought, reproduced this state with terrible accuracy. I've never seen any other actor who even understood it.

In fact, the whole cast, especially Margaret Hayes as the beset wife of English, were just exactly right. And a pat on the back is certainly deserved by Irving G. Neiman, the adaptor, who faithfully preserved the spirit of the '30s and who handled with great care the plot lines of what is essentially a hell of a good story.

Incidentally when the Montgomery theater was first announced, we all thought he'd act in a lot of plays. We've seen very little of him. In fact, with a producer and a director at his disposal, there has been some doubt as to just what his duties were over them, beyond introducing each act. I wish they'd put him to work more often.

WIFE PRESERVERS

A roll of paper toweling in the kitchen has many uses. When pork sausages or bacon are cooked, lay them on paper toweling for a short time to drain off excess fat before serving.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A X R
is LONG FELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Today's Sermonette

faith we will do just that. We will not quarrel as to whether any command Christ gives is essential or important. If Christ gives the command and we love Him and trust Him as we should we'll do it. Sheer gratitude for what He has done for us demands it. Thus, faith without works is dead. And the other side of the coin says, that works without faith is likewise dead.

The kind of faith we've been talking about has its source in the true God. It is the work of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. It is not our faith but the faith that God gives us for the asking. Likewise, the works we do, after receiving such faith, are not our works, but the works God does in us. We are rewarded for putting ourselves at His disposal. Our hearts praise God for the mighty and marvelous works He does in us and through us and on our behalf.

Today's Sermonette

faith we will do just that. We will not quarrel as to whether any command Christ gives is essential or important. If Christ gives the command and we love Him and trust Him as we should we'll do it. Sheer gratitude for what He has done for us demands it. Thus, faith without works is dead. And the other side of the coin says, that works without faith is likewise dead.

The kind of faith we've been talking about has its source in the true God. It is the work of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost. It is not our faith but the faith that God gives us for the asking. Likewise, the works we do, after receiving such faith, are not our works, but the works God does in us. We are rewarded for putting ourselves at His disposal. Our hearts praise God for the mighty and marvelous works He does in us and through us and on our behalf.

Why is this faith so important? Because it leads to salvation. "To as many as received Him, He gave power to become Sons of God." Only through faith such as this do we have rest, peace, assurance, joy. Saving faith enables us to live victoriously for Christ. Yea, though we walk through the valley of the shadow of death, we fear no evil for God is with us through His Son and Holy Spirit. This kind of faith comes by letting go of ourselves and taking hold of God. We do this by unconditionally accepting God's terms for our salvation.

Several pellets hit Sergeant Adams in the knee but he hobbled to safety. Mrs. Oliver escaped unhurt.

The crowd which had been standing around the house-collapse fled in all directions. Nearby stores and taverns emptied of customers.

Oliver appeared at the door and fired another blast that shattered Thornton's shoulder where he lay in the street.

Five more shots at random sprayed the street with shotgun pellets and kept the advancing policemen pinned down.

Patrolman Thornton, still flat on his back, reached his revolver and fired several shots when Oliver again appeared in the doorway.

Minutes later, a squad of officers broke in the back door and Sergeant Adams limped in the front. They found Oliver face down on the dining room floor. He was dead. At least two of Thornton's bullets had caught the gunman squarely in the chest.

Six Are Injured In Area Mishaps Over Week-End

Woman Is Pinned Beneath Her Car

Six persons were injured in a number of accidents over the weekend.

Mrs. Dorothy Emma Simons, of RFD 3, city is reported "somewhat improved" at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted early yesterday morning following an auto mishap near Nave's Crossroad on Route 220.

She was reported conscious and suffered a possible fracture of the skull. Mrs. Simons, according to State Police, was pinned beneath her car which turned over when she apparently lost control of it.

The highway was reported as foggy and slippery as she was driving her auto north on Route 220. She was admitted to the hospital about 6:30 a. m., according to attaches. X-rays have been taken.

Boy Is Injured

Investigating was Trooper Donald Wade.

A 12-year-old Cash Valley Road boy also was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday about 3 p. m. suffering injuries sustained when his bicycle and an auto collided.

James F. Mauk, son of James Mauk, suffered an injury to his right leg and lacerations of the face and legs, attaches noted. He was in shock when taken to the hospital. Driver of the auto was identified by police as Dale Warren Jay of Finzel. Investigating the mishap was Trooper J. F. Lewis of the Maryland State Police. Charges are pending, police said.

Rudolph Bengston, 52, of Chicago is reported in "fair" condition at Bedford County (Pa.) Memorial Hospital following an accident on Route 126 leading to Hancock.

He was reported to have suffered a fracture of the skull and other injuries in the crash at 9:30 a. m. Saturday about two and a half miles south of Breezewood, Pa. His wife, who was also injured, is reported in "good" condition.

Pennsylvania State Police said Mrs. Bengston lost control of her auto when she attempted to slow down for traffic ahead. She hit an embankment on the east side of the road and the door on the right side of the vehicle opened.

Bengston was thrown to the ground and the car careened to the west side of the highway, plunged down a 20-foot embankment and landed in a field.

Ira Weaver, 19, and Ray Wheeler, 28, of RD 1, Ridgeley, were admitted Saturday to Sacred Heart Hospital with injuries sustained in another auto mishap.

Weaver received a skull laceration and Wheeler was hurt about the head and neck. X-rays were taken and both were discharged later in the day. Hospital attaches and authorities said details were unavailable.

Only Five Dry Days Recorded Here In May

Rainfall Damaging Month's Reputation

May used to have the reputation of being the loveliest month of the year but Mother Nature seems to have forgotten about that pattern the past two years.

Robert R. Golden, local weather observer at Constitution Park, disclosed last night that only five of the first 17 days this month have been free of rain. That means that slightly over 70 per cent have been wet.

The .29 inch of rain recorded here yesterday brought to 3.20 inches the total precipitation for May. The average rainfall for May is 3.39 inches so just one more good sized rain would send the total above the average. Then, too, the month still has almost two full weeks to run.

Cumberland residents with short memories may not recall but last May was just as wet as this month has been.

Twenty-two of the 31 days in May, 1952, had rain, a figure slightly above 70 per cent, and the total rainfall for the month was 4.84 inches.

Those who hope they may see another bright day this month, probably will be disappointed today, if the weather prediction holds true. It calls for scattered showers and thundershowers with more warm and humid weather.

Mount Royal School To Hold Annual 'Circus' On Thursday

The annual Mount Royal School circus will be held Thursday, May 21, at the school beginning at 7 p. m. The circus will feature William Hay, local amateur magician, and several pantomime skits as well as many side attractions.

The first act under the school big top will be "Bits of Magic," by Hay while Miss Sally Stuart and Miss Maureen Manley of Frostburg will enact a skit mimicking Spike Jones and Wild Bill Hickok in pantomime.

The public is invited to attend the gala affair and admission will be free to the school grounds and

Medical Missionary Arrives At Her Home Here Awaiting Orders To Sail For Jordan

Miss Violet E. Popp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Popp, Williams Road, who has received a five-year appointment as a medical missionary to Jordan in the Near East, arrived at her home over the weekend for a vacation before sailing for her first overseas assignment.

Having just completed a year of study at the Women's Mission Training School of the Southern Baptist Church in Louisville, Ky., Miss Popp reached here by plane about noon Friday.

Miss Popp expects it will be about two weeks before she receives definite instructions as to when she will leave for Jordan. When she goes she will remain in that desert country for five years before getting a year's leave of absence. Another five-year assignment is expected to follow that leave.

Before deciding to devote her life to work as a missionary, Miss Popp was on the staff of Memorial Hospital, where she had served as educational director. A graduate of Fort Hill High School and the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Miss Popp also received additional training at the University of Pittsburgh.

"I know very little about Jordan but I am looking forward to a great opportunity for service," the registered nurse explained.

About two years ago, the Southern Baptist Church completed a hospital at Ajloun in Jordan. It is there that the local missionary expects to do most of her work. Besides the hospital, the Baptists also operate a school and a church there.

"The overwhelming majority of residents of Jordan are Moslems," Miss Popp stated. "However, Christians—Protestant and Roman Catholic alike—have made some progress in recent years in gaining converts," she concluded.

Miss Popp's appointment came from the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board meeting last Thursday in Richmond, Va.

New Civil Defense Plan Goes Into Effect All Over Nation

Cumberland's radio stations have placed in effect the new CONELRAD plan for public emergency broadcasting throughout the nation. The new system for radio broadcasting during or just before an impending air raid became nationally effective May 15.

FIRST HONOR—Miss Jo Ann Pfizenmayer, Mt. Savage High School senior has been chosen to serve as May Queen at the new school's first annual May festival Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the school auditorium. William Blank will serve as the Queen's Escort.

This system allows standard radio broadcast stations to remain on the air to broadcast official civil defense information and instructions while minimizing the use of radio as a navigational aid to hostile aircraft.

Representing many months of close cooperation by the broadcasting industry and the government more than 1,200 privately owned standard broadcast stations have volunteered to participate in CONELRAD and have spent approximately $2,000,000 of their own funds to make equipment changes necessary to operate the plan.

Since aircraft navigational instruments now in use enable the pilot of an airplane to use broadcasting stations as a navigational aid the best decisive counteraction by military authority has been to silence all broadcasting as soon as an attack alert is given. With the new system in effect broadcasts may now be continued without harm.

Entitled "Plan for the CONTROL of Electromagnetic RADIATION" the capitalized initials are merged into the short title, CONELRAD.

When the Air Defense Command, USAF orders the attack warning all broadcasting stations will be silenced on their normal frequencies or dial settings and AM radio stations will switch to the emergency system on the two officially designated CD frequencies—640 and 1240 kc. Which of the two frequencies to be used in various cities is determined by local authorities.

Under the new plan the identity of the radio station is lost and the general power level of all broadcasting is lowered so the radiation of any station is limited to the locality which it serves.

The new system was approved by the Federal Communications Commission on November 19, 1952, and while the shut down of all normal broadcasting during an alert is mandatory, participation in the CONELRAD plan is voluntary.

The CONELRAD clusters of broadcast stations have been instructed by the FCC to give priority to official announcements of attack warnings and to official Civil Defense programs requested by federal, state, and local authorities.

Judge William P. Cole, chairman of the University Board of Regents, will be the principal speaker. Culver Ladd, of the Student Religious Council, will deliver the invocation and Robert Drost, also of the same council, will give the benediction.

Alma Lee Gross, president of the Women's League will introduce Miss Adele Stamp, dean of women, who will present the plaques for the women's dormitories. Gary F. Eppley, dean of men, will present the men's dormitories plaques.

Countries after which some of the dormitories will be named include Allegheny, Prince Georges, Montgomery, Baltimore, Hartford, Cecil, Anne Arundel, Queen Anne and Somerset.

Some of the county names are being reserved for future men's dormitories.

MAY QUEEN—Faydra Often, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Often, 812 Maplewood Lane, sixth grade student of Columbia Street School, was elected May Queen to reign over the evening's festivities at the school Friday May 22 at 7 p. m.

Narrows Plant Work Stoppage Causes Layoff

NARROWS, Va., May 17 (AP)—Several hundred Celanese Corporation of America employees were laid off today as a result of a work stoppage that began in the Celco spinning department Friday night.

S. A. Mansfield, manager of the big synthetic textile plant, said about 150 spinning department workers continued to stay away from work. Celco employees about three thousand.

T. H. Price, United Construction Workers regional director, was at the plant today, but said "all I know so far is that there is an unauthorized work stoppage."

Price said he was ready to meet with Celco officials in an attempt to clear up the situation, but that no meetings are scheduled. Mansfield said none are planned.

In an earlier statement, Mansfield said the stoppage was illegal and in violation of the contract between the company and the UMW which is affiliated with the United Mine Workers Union.

Pennsylvania Seeks Huge Federal Fund For Flood Control

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Army Engineers have asked Congress for $2,820,000 for flood control work in Pennsylvania during the year beginning July 1.

The figures, presented at closed hearings of a house appropriations subcommittee, were included in printed testimony made public today.

Funds requested for planning flood control projects included $75,000 for the Allegheny River Reservoir in the western part of the state.

In addition, $570,000 was asked to complete the reconstruction of Lock No. 2 on the Monongahela River in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The engineers said that if they get the money they will complete the project in December of this year. The total cost will have been $17,233,000.

It will not be known until the committee acts on the army civil functions appropriations bill whether the engineers' requests will be granted.

Service Clubs Plan W. Maryland Day

Tomorrow will be Western Maryland Day with top officials of the Western Maryland Railway Company guests at the joint meeting of the Kiwanis, Optimists, Lions and Rotary clubs at Central YMCA.

W. Arthur Grotz, president of the railroad, will be principal speaker at the luncheon affair.

Albright Power Station Will Be Dedicated

Governors Of Two States To Attend

The $36,000,000 Albright Power Station—jointly owned and operated by the Potomac Edison and Monongahela Power Companies—will be dedicated May 19 with West Virginia's Governor William Marland and Maryland's Governor Theodore R. McKeldin among the featured speakers.

The big new generating station, located in Preston County, in the northeast corner of West Virginia will, when completed, have a generating capacity of 285,000 kilowatts. At the present time, two 75,000 kilowatt generating units are on the lines supplying power to Potomac Edison System and Monongahela Power Company, one unit is owned and operated by PE, one by Monongahela. The third unit is scheduled to go on the lines in '54. It will have a capacity of 135,000 kilowatts.

Featured speakers at the May 19 dedication ceremonies include Governor McKeldin, Governor Marland, R. Paul Smith, president of the Potomac Edison System, A. Clinton Spurr, president of the Monongahela Power Company, and Earle S. Thompson, president of the West Penn Electric Company—in which PE and Monongahela are "sister" organizations.

Carter Withers, station superintendent, will preside; the Rev. E. Keenan, pastor of Kingwood, W. Va., First Methodist Church, will give the invocation; and Melvin C. Snyder, judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit in W. Va., will welcome the ceremony's guests and the station personnel to West Virginia.

Immediately preceding and following the dedication ceremonies, guests will be taken through the big plant by station personnel in a series of guided tours.

Electricity from Albright for PE customers in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania will come over a recently completed 132,000 volt transmission line. This connects Albright with a new substation at Ridgeley, W. Va., just across the river from the Potomac Edison generating station in Cumberland. This new line crosses some of the roughest terrain in PE territory. It is nearly 50 miles in length and, with related substation equipment, cost well over a million dollars.

The Albright Station is the third major addition to the Potomac Edison System's generating facilities since the close of World War II. PE now has sources of electricity at Albright, W. Va., Williamsport, Md., Cumberland, Md. and River-ton, Va. The Albright Station, located in the center of a large coal producing region, will help supply the growing demand for power.

Historic B&O Station To Be Renovated

Cumberland's historic Queen City Station and Hotel, once reputed to be the most ornate railroad building in America, is being renovated so that the exterior will present an appearance almost like that of the day back in 1872 when it was opened.

A Baltimore firm, which did similar work on Camden Station in that city, is removing the accumulation of layers of paint placed on the huge structure during the past three quarters of a century.

A spokesman for the firm of G. N. Spanos and Sons, the contractor, said there are at least eight coats of paint on the building. The most recent painting of the station and hotel building was done about 1944.

A combination of caustic soda and muriatic acid is being used in hosing down the structure. This removes the paint. The work started last week and is expected to take four months.

Plans are to remove all traces of paint so that the original brick surface is visible. The window frames and beautiful iron grill work along the porches will be painted.

With Diesel locomotives replacing steam motive power on the B & O Railroad the station will not be subjected to envelopment by the soot and smoke of puffing engines.

Before dining cars came into use the B & O had to provide some way to feed their passengers at various stopping places. One of the stopping points was Cumberland and for half an hour the passengers would use the facilities of the Queen City Hotel, built by the railroad.

The Queen City Station was believed to be the finest between Baltimore, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh back in the 1890's. Many gala balls were held in the large ballroom and at least one president of the United States was entertained in the spacious room.

Officials Inspect Area B & O Shops

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad motive power officials made an inspection of shops in this section on Thursday.

The delegation included A. K. Galloway, general superintendent of motive power; G. F. Wiles, superintendent of motive power for the Eastern Region, and John Ekin Jr., supervisor of shops.

The group inspected the shops at Keyser and Cumberland.

Record Rainbows

These two proud young fishermen, John and Mark Weatherholt of 322 Avirett Avenue, are displaying a record catch of three large Rainbow trout. The fish were taken Saturday in Evitts Creek near the city and measure 12 inches, 14 inches and 18 inches. Johnny is a carrier for the Cumberland NEWS and also an ardent fisherman. The fish were caught on a Colorado spinner.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at First Brethren Church by the pastor, Rev. Milton M. Robinson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the co-operation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

And this is His commandment, That we should believe on the name of His Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us Commandment. 1 John 3:23.

On Saving Faith

By REV. MILTON ROBINSON

Most people don't know how to obtain saving faith because they don't know what it is. Many have died in the desert because they didn't know water could be extracted from a cactus plant. Others have died of hunger because they didn't realize the kinds of nourishing food in the form of plants and vegetables that were nearby. If they had eaten them they would have lived. So it is with those today who don't know what saving faith is. They are dying of spiritual starvation and thirst.

Saving faith is used in connection with four particular facts. Many, believing in one or more of these facts, mistake it for saving faith. All four must be believed upon in order to have saving faith.

First of all, saving faith involves a belief in the existence of God. Nearly everybody believes that. But, because it is a head faith and not necessarily a faith of the entire being, it in itself is insufficient to save.

We must, also, have confidence in the person and work of Jesus Christ. We must know His claims for Himself—Son of God, Son of man, Saviour of the World, conqueror of death, giver of everlasting life. We must give our consent that these things are so. We must agree to them. Then, it is necessary to personally appropriate this faith to ourselves. By appropriation, I mean live and die by it.

Saving faith takes a very important part in praying, also. Our faith should be so strong as to believe God has answered our prayer even before we arise from our knees. Someone has gone so far as to say, "We should thank God for the answer even before we receive it."

The fourth factor in saving faith is confidence and trust in God's Word and promises. He has promised us in His Word life everlasting through belief in His Son, Jesus Christ. He has commanded us to believe on His name and obey His commandments. If we have saving

Bed-Ridden Youth Appeals For Mail During His Illness

An 18-year-old boy who is bed-ridden with rheumatic fever and who has been in ill health for several years has appealed to the Cumberland NEWS for cards and letters from anyone who might desire to write him.

Bruce "Eddie" Bosley, son of Mrs. Clara F. Iman of near Fort Ashby, writes he will be confined to his bed for some time and would like very much to receive mail during his convalescent period.

Eddie's address is RFD 1, Keyser, W. Va., in care of H. N. Bosley.

VALEDICTORIAN—Elizabeth Ann Purinton, 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Purinton, 3 Marion Street, has been selected valedictorian of the senior class of 1953 at Fort Hill High School. Elizabeth's winning oration, "Who Are the Free," was recently selected by a faculty judging committee to be delivered at graduation exercises on June 4.

Keyser Citizens Ballot Tuesday In Primary Vote

Swimming Pool Bonds Also Will Be Decided

Voters of Keyser will ballot tomorrow in a primary election to decide who will be candidates for mayor and one councilmanic post.

They also will cast votes on a proposed city bond issue of approximately $45,000, which would be applied toward the building of a city swimming pool if approved.

There are two candidates for mayor so that both will be nominated for the general election on Tuesday, June 2. They are Mayor Chester J. Compton, whose first term comes to an end June 30, and John C. Freeland, a former mayor who served seven two-year terms before declining to run for reelection two years ago.

Three candidates are seeking the one council post at stake so that one will be eliminated in the primary. The candidates are Councilman Raymond L. Murray, presently the water commissioner, whose two-year term ends June 30; Evers T. Kessel, South Keyser, and Thomas P. Fischell, who lives in the West End of the Mineral county seat.

The City Recreation Board has asked citizens to vote for a swimming pool to be placed on a part of the Mineral County Board of Education property on New Creek Drive. A $20,000 fund, held in the West Virginia Sinking Fund for Keyser, is earmarked for the swimming pool. It was voted for by the citizens of Keyser several years ago. The Recreation Board also has some $6,000, set aside for purchasing play lots, which can be added to the $20,000. If the $45,000 bond issue is approved sufficient funds will be available for the pool, board members say.

Episcopalians Will Meet Here Today

Clergymen and parishioners from Episcopal Churches of Western Maryland will attend the spring meeting of the Convocation of Cumberland at Emmanuel Episcopal Church here today.

Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of the Diocese of Maryland, will be the celebrant at a service of Holy Communion at 11 a. m. today as the meeting begins. Bishop Powell was in Mt. Savage, yesterday for his annual visitation to St. George's Church.

Rev. Charles I. Kratz, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Frostburg, will preach the sermon at the Holy Communion service.

All parishes from Hancock to Oakland are expected to send representatives to the session today.

At the Holy Communion service there will be a luncheon at 1 p. m. and a business meeting at 2 p. m.

DeBolt Named Head Of Typo Conference

ALTOONA, Pa. May 17 (AP)—Burton L. DeBolt, Cumberland, Md., was elected president of the Tri-State Typographical Conference which wound up its 73rd semi-annual session today.

The conference, made up of members from Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, elected Clyde S. Flick of Johnstown secretary—treasurer for his 22nd term.

Other officers chosen included: Vice presidents: James J. Beidler, Greensburg, Pa.; Clarence O. Nyström, Meadville, Pa.; A. J. Chorpennig, Cumberland; Irving M. Kelley, Altoona, and Henry V. Swerken, Wheeling, W. Va.

Births

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Robertson, RD 4, city, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Horwath, 117 Pennsylvania Avenue, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Williams, Mt. Savage, a daughter Saturday.

Sacred Heart Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kelly, 611 Henderson Avenue, a son yesterday.

Civic Symphony Orchestra To Conclude Season Tuesday

The Cumberland Civic Symphony Orchestra will close its concert season tomorrow night at Allegany High School when it will feature a program of light, airy music with soprano Regina Butta the soloist. The concert will begin at 8:15 p. m. in the school auditorium with the Merry Wives of Windsor Overture by Nicolai as the opening number.

The orchestra will then conclude the first part of the program with the Petite Suite De Concert by Coleridge-Taylor, playing the Allegro con trito, Andante, Allegretto and Vivace.

Following intermission Miss Butta, a graduate of the College of Notre Dame, Baltimore, will sing a variety of numbers ranging from La Girometra by Sibella to The Green Dog by Kingsley. Her offerings will consist of La Girometra; the Dove Sonata from the Marriage of Figaro by Mozart; Si mes vers avient des ailes, Hahn; Ouvre ton coeur, Bizet; It is A Spring Night, Giannini; The Watchmaker's Shop, Morrison; The Green Dog; and Czardas from Die Fledermaus by Strauss.

Miss Butta's accompanist will be Mrs. Solange Frank, coach and staff pianist in the Preparatory Department of the Peabody Conservatory which Miss Butta attends.

The orchestra will then conclude the program with works by American composers, beginning with Maytime Selection by Romberg; Clear Track, Edward Strauss; Emperor Waltz, Johann Strauss; Over the Rainbow, Harburg; and The Legend of the Arkansas Traveler, by McConald.

Having just completed a year of study at the Women's Mission Training School of the Southern Baptist Church in Louisville, Ky., Miss Popp reached here by plane about noon Friday.

Miss Popp expects it will be about two weeks before she receives definite instructions as to when she will leave for Jordan. When she goes she will remain in that desert country for five years before getting a year's leave of absence. Another five-year assignment is expected to follow that leave.

Before deciding to devote her life to work as a missionary, Miss Popp was on the staff of Memorial Hospital, where she had served as educational director. A graduate of Fort Hill High School and the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Miss Popp also received additional training at the University of Pittsburgh.

"I know very little about Jordan but I am looking forward to a great opportunity for service," the registered nurse explained.

About two years ago, the Southern Baptist Church completed a hospital at Ajloun in Jordan. It is there that the local missionary expects to do most of her work. Besides the hospital, the Baptists also operate a school and a church there.

"The overwhelming majority of residents of Jordan are Moslems," Miss Popp stated. "However, Christians—Protestant and Roman Catholic alike—have made some progress in recent years in gaining converts," she concluded.

Miss Popp's appointment came from the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board meeting last Thursday in Richmond, Va.

New Civil Defense Plan Goes Into Effect All Over Nation

Cumberland's radio stations have placed in effect the new CONELRAD plan for public emergency broadcasting throughout the nation. The new system for radio broadcasting during or just before an impending air raid became nationally effective May 15.

This system allows standard radio broadcast stations to remain on the air to broadcast official civil defense information and instructions while minimizing the use of radio as a navigational aid to hostile aircraft.

Representing many months of close cooperation by the broadcasting industry and the government more than 1,200 privately owned standard broadcast stations have volunteered to participate in CONELRAD and have spent approximately $2,000,000 of their own funds to make equipment changes necessary to operate the plan.

Since aircraft navigational instruments now in use enable the pilot of an airplane to use broadcasting stations as a navigational aid the best decisive counteraction by military authority has been to silence all broadcasting as soon as an attack alert is given. With the new system in effect broadcasts may now be continued without harm.

Entitled "Plan for the CONTROL of Electromagnetic RADIATION" the capitalized initials are merged into the short title, CONELRAD.

When the Air Defense Command, USAF orders the attack warning all broadcasting stations will be silenced on their normal frequencies or dial settings and AM radio stations will switch to the emergency system on the two officially designated CD frequencies—640 and 1240 kc. Which of the two frequencies to be used in various cities is determined by local authorities.

Under the new plan the identity of the radio station is lost and the general power level of all broadcasting is lowered so the radiation of any station is limited to the locality which it serves.

The new system was approved by the Federal Communications Commission on November 19, 1952, and while the shut down of all normal broadcasting during an alert is mandatory, participation in the CONELRAD plan is voluntary.

The CONELRAD clusters of broadcast stations have been invited by the FCC to give priority to official announcements of attack warnings and to official Civil Defense programs requested by federal, state, and local authorities.

The breakfast was served by women of the parish. Pastors of the three local Catholic churches attended the affair on the invitation of J. Arthur McDade, grand knight of the Cumberland Council. Also in attendance was Rev. Robert Kilgannon, pastor of St. Anthony's of Ridgeley.

James E. Rickard and Peter J. Carpentieri were in charge of arrangements and the members attending the affair met in the old parish school prior to the breakfast.

Area Man Returns

M/Sgt. Richard M. Goulett, Spring Gap, was among 985 passengers aboard the Navy transport Gen. Simon B. Buckner when it docked Saturday in Seattle, Wash. Goulett was one of nine Maryland servicemen aboard the vessel returning from the Far East.

Judge William P. Cole, chairman of the University Board of Regents, will be the principal speaker. Culver Ladd, of the Student Religious Council, will deliver the invocation and Robert Drost, also of the same council, will give the benediction.

Alma Lee Gross, president of the Women's League will introduce Miss Adele Stamp, dean of women, who will present the plaques for the women's dormitories. Gary F. Eppley, dean of men, will present the men's dormitories plaques. Counties after which some of the dormitories will be named include Allegheny, Prince Georges, Montgomery, Baltimore, Hartford, Cecil, Anne Arundel, Queen Anne and Somerset.

Some of the county names are being reserved for future men's dormitories.

Narrows Plant Work Stoppage Causes Layoff

NARROWS, Va., May 17 (AP)—"Several hundred" Celanese Corporation of America employees were laid off today as a result of a work stoppage that began in the Celco spinning department Friday night.

S. A. Mansfield, manager of the big synthetic textile plant, said about 150 spinning department workers continued to stay away from work. Celco employees about three thousand.

T. H. Price, United Construction Workers regional director, was at the plant today, but said "all I know so far is that there is an unauthorized work stoppage."

Price said he was ready to meet with Celco officials in an attempt to clear up the situation, but that no meetings are scheduled. Mansfield said none are planned.

In an earlier statement, Mansfield said the stoppage was illegal and in violation of the contract between the company and the UMW which is affiliated with the United Mine Workers Union.

Pennsylvania Seeks Huge Federal Fund For Flood Control

WASHINGTON, May 17 (AP)—The Army Engineers have asked Congress for $2,820,000 for flood control work in Pennsylvania during the year beginning July 1.

The figures, presented at closed hearings of a house appropriations subcommittee, were included in printed testimony made public today.

Funds requested for planning flood control projects included $75,000 for the Allegheny River Reservoir in the western part of the state.

In addition, $570,000 was asked to complete the reconstruction of Lock No. 2 on the Monongahela River in Pennsylvania and West Virginia. The engineers said that if they get the money they will complete the project in December of this year. The total cost will have been $17,233,000.

It will not be known until the committee acts on the army civil functions appropriations bill whether the engineers' requests will be granted.

Service Clubs Plan W. Maryland Day

Tomorrow will be Western Maryland Day with top officials of the Western Maryland Railway Company guests at the joint meeting of the Kiwanis, Optimists, Lions and Rotary clubs at Central YMCA.

W. Arthur Grotz, president of the railroad, will be principal speaker at the luncheon affair.

Albright Power Station Will Be Dedicated

Governors Of Two States To Attend

The $36,000,000 Albright Power Station—jointly owned and operated by the Potomac Edison and Monongahela Power Companies—will be dedicated May 19 with West Virginia's Governor William Marland and Maryland's Governor Theodore R. McKeldin among the featured speakers.

The big new generating station, located in Preston County, in the northeast corner of West Virginia will, when completed, have a generating capacity of 285,000 kilowatts. At the present time, two 75,000 kilowatt generating units are on the lines supplying power to Potomac Edison System and Monongahela Power Company, one unit is owned and operated by PE, one by Monongahela. The third unit is scheduled to go on the lines in '54. It will have a capacity of 135,000 kilowatts.

Featured speakers at the May 19 dedication ceremonies include Governor McKeldin, Governor Marland, R. Paul Smith, president of the Potomac Edison System, A. Clinton Spurr, president of the Monongahela Power Company, and Earle S. Thompson, president of the West Penn Electric Company—in which PE and Monongahela are "sister" organizations.

Carter Withers, station superintendent, will preside; the Rev. W. E. Keenan, pastor of Kingwood, W. Va., First Methodist Church, will give the invocation; and Melvin C. Snyder, judge of the 18th Judicial Circuit in W. Va., will welcome the ceremony's guests and the station personnel to West Virginia.

Immediately preceding and following the dedication ceremonies, guests will be taken through the big plant by station personnel in a series of guided tours.

Electricity from Albright for PE customers in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia and Pennsylvania will come over a recently completed 132,000 volt transmission line. This connects Albright with a new substation at Ridgeley, W. Va., just across the river from the Potomac Edison generating station in Cumberland. This new line crosses some of the roughest terrain in PE territory. It is nearly 50 miles in length and, with related substation equipment, cost well over a million dollars.

The Albright Station is the third major addition to the Potomac Edison System's generating facilities since the close of World War II. PE now has sources of electricity at Albright, W. Va., Williamsport, Md., Cumberland, Md. and River-ton, Va. The Albright Station, located in the center of a large coal producing region, will help supply the growing demand for power.

Historic B&O Station To Be Renovated

Cumberland's historic Queen City Station and Hotel, once reputed to be the most ornate railroad building in America, is being renovated so that the exterior will present an appearance almost like that of the day back in 1872 when it was opened.

A Baltimore firm, which did similar work on Camden Station in that city, is removing the accumulation of layers of paint placed on the huge structure during the past three quarters of a century.

A spokesman for the firm of G. N. Spanos and Sons, the contractor, said there are at least eight coats of paint on the building. The most recent painting of the station and hotel building was done about 1944.

A combination of caustic soda and muriatic acid is being used in hosing down the structure. This removes the paint. The work started last week and is expected to take four months.

Plans are to remove all traces of paint so that the original brick surface is visible. The window frames and beautiful iron grill work along the porches will be painted.

With Diesel locomotives replacing steam motive power on the B & O Railroad the station will not be subjected to envelopment by the soot and smoke of puffing engines.

Before dining cars came into use the B & O had to provide some way to feed their passengers at various stopping points. One of the standing points was Cumberland and for half an hour the passengers would use the facilities of the Queen City Hotel, built by the railroad.

The Queen City Station was believed to be the finest between Baltimore, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh back in the 1890's. Many gala balls were held in the large ballroom and at least one president of the United States was entertained in the spacious room.

Officials Inspect Area B & O Shops

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad motive power officials made an inspection of shops in this section on Thursday.

The delegation included A. K. Galloway, general superintendent of motive power; G. F. Wiles, superintendent of motive power for the Eastern Region, and John Ekin Jr., supervisor of shops.

The group inspected the shops at Keyser and Cumberland.

Record Rainbows

These two proud young fishermen, John and Mark Weatherholt of 322 Aviret Avenue, are displaying a record catch of three large Rainbow trout. The fish were taken Saturday in Evitts Creek near the city and measure 12 inches, 14 inches and 18 inches. Johnny is a carrier for the Cumberland NEWS and also an ardent fisherman. The fish were caught on a Colorado spinner.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at First Brethren Church by the pastor, Rev. Milton M. Robinson. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

And this is His commandment, That we should believe on the name of His Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us Commandment, 1 John 3:23.

On Saving Faith

By REV. MILTON ROBINSON

Most people don't know how to obtain saving faith because they don't know what it is. Many have died in the desert because they didn't know water could be extracted from a cactus plant. Others have died of hunger because they didn't realize the kinds of nourishing food in the form of plants and vegetables that were nearby.

If they had eaten them they would have lived. So it is with those today who don't know what saving faith is. They are dying of spiritual starvation and thirst.

Saving faith is used in connection with four particular facts. Many, believing in one or more of these facts, mistake it for saving faith.

All four must be believed upon in order to have saving faith.

First of all, saving faith involves a belief in the existence of God.

Nearly everybody believes that.

But, because it is a head faith and not necessarily a faith of the entire being, it in itself is insufficient to save.

We must, also, have confidence in the person and work of Jesus Christ. We must know His claims for Himself—Son of God, Son of man, Saviour of the World, conqueror of death, giver of everlasting life. We must give our consent that these things are so. We must agree to them. Then, it is necessary to personally appropriate this faith to ourselves. By appropriation, I mean live and die by it.

Saving faith takes a very important part in praying, also. Our faith should be so strong as to believe God has answered our prayer even before we arise from our knees. Someone has gone so far as to say, "We should thank God for the answer even before we receive it."

The fourth factor in saving faith is confidence and trust in God's Word and promises. He has promised us in His Word life everlasting through belief in His Son, Jesus Christ. He has commanded us to believe on His name and obey His commandments. If we have saving

Keyser Citizens Ballot Tuesday In Primary Vote

Swimming Pool Bonds Also Will Be Decided

Voters of Keyser will ballot tomorrow in a primary election to decide who will be candidates for mayor and one councilmanic post.

They also will cast votes on a proposed city bond issue of approximately $45,000, which would be applied toward the building of a city swimming pool if approved.

There are two candidates for mayor so that both will be nominated for the general election on Tuesday, June 2. They are Mayor Chester J. Compton, whose first term comes to an end June 30, and John C. Freeland, a former mayor who served seven two-year terms before declining to run for re-election two years ago.

Three candidates are seeking the one council post at stake so that one will be eliminated in the primary. The candidates are Councilman Raymond L. Murray, presently the water commissioner, whose two-year term ends June 30; Evers T. Kessel, South Keyser, and Thomas P. Fischell, who lives in the West End of the Mineral county seat.

The City Recreation Board has asked citizens to vote for a swimming pool to be placed on a part of the Mineral County Board of Education property on New Creek Drive. A $20,000 fund, held in the West Virginia Sinking Fund for Keyser, is earmarked for the swimming pool. It was voted for by the citizens of Keyser several years ago. The Recreation Board also has some $6,000, set aside for purchasing play lots, which can be added to the $20,000. If the $45,000 bond issue is approved sufficient funds will be available for the pool, board members say.

Episcopalians Will Meet Here Today

Clergymen and parishioners from Episcopal Churches of Western Maryland will attend the spring meeting of the Convocation of Cumberland at Emmanuel Episcopal Church here today.

Rt. Rev. Noble C. Powell, bishop of the Diocese of Maryland, will be the celebrant at a service of Holy Communion at 11 a. m. today as the meeting begins. Bishop Powell was in Mt. Savage, yesterday for his annual visitation to St. George's Church.

Rev. Charles I. Kratz, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church in Frostburg, will preach the sermon at the Holy Communion service. All parishes from Hancock to Oakland are expected to send representatives to the session today.

At the Holy Communion service there will be a luncheon at 1 p. m. and a business meeting at 2 p. m.

DeBolt Named Head Of Typo Conference

ALTOONA, Pa., May 17 (AP)—Burland E. DeBolt, Cumberland, Md., was elected president of the Tri-State Typographical Conference which wound up its 73rd semi-annual session today.

The conference, made up of members from Pennsylvania, Maryland and West Virginia, elected Clyde S. Flick of Johnstown secretary-treasurer for his 22nd term.

Other officers chosen included: Vice presidents: James J. Beidler, Greensburg, Pa., Clarence O. Nyström, Meadville, Pa.; A. J. Chorpennig, Cumberland; Irving M. Kelley, Altoona, and Henry V. Swerken, Wheeling, W. Va.
